Chamberlain Asks Patience For Fuller Report Of Campaign In Norway

The British have abandoned all hope of immediate victory in the Trondheim area, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain disclosed to the House of Commons today, and have withdrawn their troops from the area without the loss of a single man.

These retreats, however, do not affect the British determination in the Norwegian campaign, he said, because "we have no intention of allowing Norway to become merely a sideshow."

Captain Of Lake Steamer Stays Aboard As Ship Sinks

(International News Service)

SAULT STE. MARIE, Mich., May 2.—The story of a captain who went down with his ship in the waters of Lake Superior rather than be saved was told today by the rescued 16 crew members of the Canadian steamer Arlington who were snatched from death yesterday morning by the S. S. Collingwood.

The man who followed the age-old tradition of the sea was Captain Fred Burke, 59, who remained aboard his ship as she sank approximately 12½ miles off Superior Shoal in 800 fathoms.

The Collingwood, which passed through the Soo Locks today, was captained by T. J. Carson who said he was following the Arlington when a blinding snow and windstorm was encountered.

"The Arlington showed signs of being in trouble and we stood by, presently taking off the 16 members of the crew," Carson said, adding, "But Captain Burke refused and went down with his ship."

Since neither ship was equipped with a wireless, the story of the rescue went unannounced until the ship docked through the canal.

Captain Burke was a brother of the owners of the Arlington, George and Dave Burke of Midland, Ont., operators of the Burke Towing and Salvage company. The vessel, 27 years old, was carrying a cargo of grain and was enroute from Fort William to a lower lake port.

Asserts Italy Has Actually Been In War Since Start

Mussolini's Newspaper Says Policy Of 'Waitfulness' Is Being Followed

(International News Service)

ROME, May 2.—Italy actually has been in the war since the first day it started and will advance from its present position when the right time comes, Premier Mussolini's newspaper, The Popolo D'Italia, declared today.

"Italy has been participating in the war since the first day," Popolo said.

"Disclosure of the time when Italy intends to advance from its position of 'waitfulness' concerns one person exclusively—the man responsible for guiding and safeguarding the fortunes of the Italian people.

"There is little difference between the French and British armies waiting on the Maginot line and the Italian army waiting in its barracks, offices and fields.

Dr. Church Goes Into Seclusion

Has No Further Statement On Offer Of $1,000,000 For Hitler's Delivery To League

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—Dr. Samuel Harden Church, the 82-year-old educator who caused a sensation yesterday by placing a $1,000,000 bounty on Adolf Hitler's head, remained incommunicado at his Pittsburgh home today and his wife bluntly informed reporters that he has "no further statement to make."

Church's home, however, was placed under constant police guard, at the request of a son.

Considerable reaction greeted the aged man's offer, ranging from a "grand idea" to "publicity seeker." Willy Knopfel, German consul here, termed the offer "just childish."

Gurdon F. Flagg, secretary and treasurer of Pittsburgh's exclusive Duquesne club, where Dr. Church said the reward was considered for some time, disclaimed any advance knowledge of the bounty and insisted the head of Carnegie Institute was "not authorized to speak for the club."

MAKE RETREAT OVER MOUNTAINS

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 2.—Confirmation that German troops have evacuated the Norwegian town of Roeros and made way for Allied occupants was obtained by the Stockholm correspondent of the London Evening Standard today.

The correspondent said he had talked with a Norwegian telephone operator at Roeros, who informed him that the Germans retreated over the mountains toward Kvikne, "where the remainder of Nazi forces is still trying to break through to Stoeren."

"The Germans left here late Tuesday night after Norwegian patrols and Swedish volunteers fought skirmishes with them in alleyways and back streets on the outskirts of the town," the operator was quoted as saying.

"They took with them all the food they could find."

The Germans in Roeros consisted of about 150 men, supported by tanks, motor bicycles and heavy trucks. Before they left, the Standard said, the German commander admitted that the retreat would break communications between Oslo and Trondheim, but said that his orders were to reinforce German troops at Doevradal who were advancing against Dombaas.

French Liner Starts On Trip

Luxury Liner Departs From New York Harbor During Night

BELIEVED HEADED TOWARD HALIFAX

(International News Service)

NEW YORK, May 2.—Loaded with the largest cargo of war materials to leave the United States since the beginning of the European conflict, the French luxury liner Ile de France was "somewhere at sea" today, probably enroute to Halifax.

After transferring her 12,000 tons of copper, 6,000 barrels of oil for submarine fuel and a score of American-made war planes to other ships for transit to Europe from Halifax, it is believed the Ile de France will set course for Australia where she will join the Cunarders Queen Mary and Mauretania as a troop transport.

The 43,450-ton ship backed from her Staten Island dock early last night, as several thousand persons lined the shore to watch departure.

Only two passengers were believed aboard—a French army officer who had been here on a special mission, and his 16-year-old daughter. The girl could be seen standing on the bridge waving good bye as the liner backed into the channel.

Several war planes, which could not be stowed away in the crowded hold of the vessel, were lashed to the after deck, as were several large piles of crates, believed to contain airplane motors.

No guns were in evidence, but it was reported she is equipped with several anti-aircraft cannon and an anti-submarine gun.

Italian Ambassador Confers With President

[BULLETIN]
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 2—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Don Ascanio Dei Principi Colonna, the Italian ambassador to the United States, conferred for 15 minues at the state department today and then left together for a noon (EST) conference with President Roosevelt at the White House.

They refused to talk to reporters.

Important Conference

Washington, May 2—Belief that highly important Italian-American political negotiations bearing upon Italy's participation in the European war are in progress was strengthened today when the Italian ambassador, Don Ascanio Dei Principi Colonna, made appointments to see both President Roosevelt and acting secretary of State Sumner Welles.

The ambassador's white house appointment was arranged by the state department less than 24 hours after William Phillips, U. S. Ambassador in Rome, had held a 30-minute talk with Premier Benito Mussolini.

Observers pointed out that neither the president for Il Duce usually receive ambassadors except to dis-

Believe Mussolini Plays Shrewd Political Game To Give Aid To Hitler

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 2—A shrewd political game, designed to prevent strengthening of allied naval forces in the Scandinavian war theatre, is being played by Italian Premier Mussolini on behalf of his axis partner, Adolf Hitler, astute Washington diplomatic observers believed today.

This was the interpretation placed upon the recent anti-allied propaganda in the Fascist press and the statements of prominent Italian party leaders, telling the Italian people to be ready for war. Informed officials, however, said they would be very much surprised if Italy went to the armed assistance of Hitler at this time.

Using Propaganda Weapon

While preserving a legal peace, Il Duce is believed to be using his propaganda weapon just as effectively as if it were the Italian fleet. Both Great Britain and France have strong naval forces in the Mediterranean and off Spain. At least some of these ships might be diverted to the North sea—where they are badly needed to attack German lines of supply or to escort allied troop ships enroute to Norway—if Paris and London felt sure that Italy would keep the peace.

That, according to observers, is exactly what Mussolini does not want. Great Britain and France to feel. So long as Rome, by official intimations that Italy may join Germany in the war can keep the allies uneasy, they will not dare weaken their Mediterranean naval forces.

United States is following the tense diplomatic chess game between Italy and the allies with extreme interest. If—contrary to expectations—war should break out in the Mediterranean, United States ships probably would be cut off from their remaining traffic with Europe.

New And Undisclosed Tactical Military Undertakings In Norway Indicated

By CHARLES A. SMITH

LONDON, May 2.—British troops have failed in their initial effort to capture Trondheim from the south and all British forces in that immediate area have been withdrawn without the loss of a single man, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain revealed in the House of Commons today.

Chamberlain referred only to a British withdrawal from the area south of Trondheim.

Italian Ambassador Confers With President

(BULLETIN)
(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 2—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles and Don Ascanio Dei Principi Colonna, the Italian ambassador to the United States, conferred for 15 minues at the state department today and then left together for a noon (EST) conference with President Roosevelt at the White House.

They refused to talk to reporters

Important Conference

Washington, May 2—Belief that highly important Italian-American political negotiations bearing upon Italy's participation in the European war are in progress was strengthened today when the Italian ambassador, Don Ascanio Dei Principi Colonna, made appointments to see both President Roosevelt and acting secretary of State Sumner Welles.

The ambassador's white house appointment was arranged by the state department less than 24 hours after William Phillips, U. S. Ambassador in Rome, had held a 30-minute talk with Premier Benito Mussolini.

Observers pointed out that neither the president for Il Duce usually receive ambassadors except to dis-

Believe Mussolini Plays Shrewd Political Game To Give Aid To Hitler

By JOSEPH H. BAIRD
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 2—A shrewd political game, designed to prevent strengthening of allied naval forces in the Scandinavian war theatre, is being played by Italian Premier Mussolini on behalf of his axis partner, Adolf Hitler, astute Washington diplomatic observers believed today.

This was the interpretation placed upon the recent anti-allied propaganda in the Fascist press and the statements of prominent Italian party leaders, telling the Italian people to be ready for war. Informed officials, however, said they would be very much surprised if Italy went to the armed assistance of Hitler at this time.

Using Propaganda Weapon

While preserving a legal peace, Il Duce is believed to be using his propaganda weapon just as effectively as if it were the Italian fleet. Both Great Britain and France have strong naval forces in the Mediterranean and off Spain. At least some of these ships might be diverted to the North sea—where they are badly needed to attack German lines of supply or to escort allied troop ships enroute to Norway—if Paris and London felt sure that Italy would keep the peace.

That, according to observers, is exactly what Mussolini does not want Great Britain and France to feel. So long as Rome, by official intimations that Italy may join Germany in the war can keep the allies uneasy, they will not dare weaken their Mediterranean naval forces.

United States is following the tense diplomatic chess game between Italy and the allies with extreme interest. If—contrary to expectations—war should break out in the Mediterranean, United States ships probably would be cut off from their remaining traffic with Europe.

STOCKHOLM, May 2.—Apparently sinking one German vessel and setting another on fire, combined British naval and aerial forces raided German troop transports and supply ships in the Kattegat today in a renewed effort to cut the Reich's sea communications with Norway.

Points along the west coast of Sweden reported that a heavy battle was in progress and that cannonading that lasted two hours had been heard.

Convoys Dispersed

Two or three convoys, apparently German troop ships and supply vessels escorted by Reich warships, were dispersed, according to reports reaching Stockholm from Gothenburg and other centers along the coast.

New And Undisclosed Tactical Military Undertakings In Norway Indicated

By CHARLES A. SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

LONDON, May 2. — British troops have failed in their initial effort to capture Trondheim from the south and all British forces in that immediate area have been withdrawn without the loss of a single man, Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain revealed in the House of Commons today.

Chamberlain referred only to a British withdrawal from the area south of Trondheim.

It was assumed, therefore, that Namsos has not been evacuated.

It is too early to "strike a balance" in Norway, he said, and the Allies have no intention of permitting Norway to become a "sideshow."

This clear indication of some new and undisclosed tactical military undertaking by the Allies in Norway was coupled with announcement that an Anglo-French battle fleet is in the eastern Mediterranean, steaming toward Alexandria, Egypt.

False Shout Of "Fire" Causes Panic At Theatre, In Farrell Last Night

(International News Service)

FARRELL, Pa., May 2 — Search was underway today for the person whose false shout of "fire" started a panic in a Farrell theatre last night that brought serious injury to at least six children and minor injury to innumerable others.

About 500 children and 125 adults were in the Capitol Theatre watching a Shirley Temple picture at the time, six youngsters, trampled in the rush for exits, were in Buhl hospital, Sharon.

Manager Louis Lampros said the patrons on the lower floor filed out in an orderly manner, but that those on the balcony stampeded, crushing each other in their mad dash to get out.

Several score children were treated at the offices of nearby physicians.

Those most seriously hurt were identified as Joanne, 5, and Eleanor Cheza, 8; Charles Morrison, 5; Donald Brew, 6; Donna Lee Wagner, 7, and William Andrews, 6, of Wheatland.

An immediate police investigation was launched.

SNOWSTORM RAGES FOR TWENTY HOURS

(International News Service)

A three-day wave of tornadoes, floods and snow and rain storms today left at least 17 persons dead and several score injured in six states.

Hundreds of homes were in ruins, miles of communication lines were wrecked, livestock was killed and maimed and crops were spoiled, sending estimates of property damage well above the $1,000,000 mark.

Five persons died in gales which swept southeastern Missouri Tuesday night. Three died in a flash flood in east Texas. Five members of one family and another person perished in the wreckage of their homes at Tull, Ark., whipped by a tornado late Tuesday. More than 100 homes were demolished in Louisiana Monday night.

Hits Southern Illinois

Although no one was killed in a tornado which struck southern Illinois Tuesday night, damaging about 20 towns, one farmer died in a twister which hit the state on Monday. A man was killed by lightning bolt at Rantoul, Ill, yesterday, and a woman was crushed to death in her home at Grand River, Ky., demolished by a tornado.

Hospitals at Cairo, Ill., ad Cape Girardeau, Mo., held many injured. Several persons were reported so critically hurt they may die.

A May snowstorm raged for almost 20 hours in the midwest, extending from Des Moines, Ia., to Chicago and eastward into portions of Ohio and Michigan. Heav rains were general through the midwest and midsouth, and in the south many crops were reported ruined by hail and rain. REPORT GERMANS ABANDON ROERos ed to a point only 24 miles southeast of Aandalsnes, one of the chief British landing places on the Norwegian coast.

As a result of this advance, it was said, the Norwegian commander in the Moeren-Romsdal area has offered to surrender and has ordered his troops to cease their "useless' resistance.

Informed German circles said that the British and Norwegians are entirely without communications and that their debacle is as great an organization as a military one.

These quarters compared the Norwegian campaign with the ill-starred Gallipoli venture of the World war, predicting that the ultimate effect upon British and neutral morale will exceed that of 1915.

Expanding the communique, Military authorities announced that German troops operating northwest of Oslo have gained considerable ground and reached Sognefjord.

The fourth Norwegian division, which surrendered in the Valdres area, it was said, numbers 300 officers and 3,200 men, with 290 horses, three mountain field-guns and 85 machine-guns.

Before abandoning Dombaas, these quarters claimed, the British made a last stand near Kleven but were routed.

Deny German Claims

London, May 2.—German claims that British troops are carrying out a hasty and disorderly evacuation of Norwegian key points were discounted in authoritative British circles today.

It was believed certain, however, that the allied forces have again retired in orderly fashion in the Dombaas area in pursuance of a "strategic plan".

BRITISH NAVY IN STRONG ATTACK ON NAZI TRANSPORTS

reported to have won new successes on the grim Norwegian battle fields, forcing German detachments to abandon the important town of Tynset in the Oester Valley following the earlier Nazi withdrawal from Roeros.

(A Reuters (British) dispatch from Stockholm said it was believed the German withdrawal from Roeros would result in the German line of communications further south in the Oester Valley being broken near Rena. The dispatch added it was understood the Germans were retreating from both Tynset and Kvikne.)

Several Ships Sunk

One report said that "several ships" were sunk during the activity in the Kattegat, where the fighting took place under cover of darkness. This report, emanating from Gothenburg, was not confirmed.

Most advices agreed, however, that one vessel was seen in flames off Oeckeroe Island and that another was sunk within sight of the Marstand fortress.

The heaviest sea fighting apparently occurred off the coast somewhere north of Gothenburg. Residents of both Roeroe and Oeckeroe Islands reported hearing heavy gunfire that indicated a large scale engagement. Advices from these islands told of the dispersal of the German convoys.

Many aircraft took part in the engagement, evidently aiding the British surface units in their attempt to break up the German sea communications.

At the height of the battle, it was reported, some vessels halted to assist others which had been attacked, while other units of the convoys steamed doggedly toward the north.

German Withdrawal

Gunfire also was reported near the mouth of Oslo Fjord, indicating that the battle was spread over a wide area.

On land, the German withdrawal from both Roeros and Tynset also meant abandonment by the Nazis of a 30-mile stretch of railroad and highway connecting the two towns.

Reports from the battle area indicated the Germans fell back under severe pressure from British-Norwegian troops supported by Swedish and possibly Czechoslovakian and Polish volunteers.

Norwegian reports claimed that the Allies have established strong positions, including artillery emplacements, along the Dombaas-Stoeren railway, the vitally important communications line in Central Norway.

Despite the Allied claims, however, the true situation in General Norway remained obscure. It was believed official clarification would come only after the operations now in progress have ended and one side or the other has attained its immediate objectives.

BRITISH TROOPS WITHDRAW FROM TRONDHEIM AREA

armed people" for Britain's failure to aid Norway more speedily and effectively, Chamberlain ridiculed German claims that the British near Trondheim had retreated in wild disorder.

"It became evident to us some days ago," he said, "that it would be impossible—owing to the Germans' local air superiority, to land artillery and tanks which would have been necessary to enable our troops to withstand an enemy drive from the south.

"Accordingly we decided last week that we must abandon any idea of taking Trondheim from the south and that we must withdraw our troops from that area and transfer them elsewhere.

Withdraw Without Loss

"Thanks to the forces which the navy was able to bring to bear and the determination and skilful dispositions of General Paget, commanding the British land forces in that area, and backed by the splendid courage and tenacity of our troops, we have now withdrawn the whole of our forces at Aandalsnes under the very noses of German planes without so far as I am aware, losing a single man in the operations."

The commanding general in the Trondheim area is Major General Bernard Paget.

Chamberlain said he regretted that he was unable to detail the casualties in various operations.

"But," he said, "there is some reason to believe they have not been heavy in proportion to the scale of operations.

"I expect that we shall be able to get more detailed reports before long. I trust that this most distressing but inevitable period of uncertainty will not be prolonged.

"Although in the face of overwhelming difficulties it has not been possible to effect the capture of Trondheim, I am satisfied that the balance of advantage lies, up to the present, with the Allied forces."

Chamberlain's delivery was confident and gave not the slightest indication that Britain was "raising the white flag." He was greeted on several occasions by loud cheers.

The house appeared to receive announcement of the evacuation with relief rather than dismay, particularly since all members with active military experience have long been agitating for the British to "clear out" of the difficult situation south of Trondheim.

DECLARES BRITISH WILL NOT ABANDON NORWAY CAMPAIGN

Mediterranean en route to Alexandria denoting some new and probably spectacular allied strategy.

While Berlin announced that a new German junction had been effected on the west coast of Norway near Bergen, thus gripping the British in another pincers, Prime Minister Chamberlain spoke in the House of Commons before a packed audience of parliament members and diplomats from almost every country with representatives in Britain.

United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, however, was kept away by "the pressure of important business."

Chamberlain Asks Patience

Begging the members of the house to exercise patience a little longer before he could give the complete story of the Norwegian campaign, Chamberlain proceeded to make what he called an "interim statement", and said he hoped that Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, would be able "to say a great deal more next week."

Britain has kept a small force in readiness to occupy Norwegian western ports for the past month, the prime minister declared. But this force was only to be used in the event of a violation of Norway's neutrality, he continued, or in the event Britain was invited by the Norwegian government to carry out an occupation of the country.

Planned Treachery

"It has been asked," Chamberlain declared, "how in spite of these preparations, Germany has been able to forestall us. The answer is simple. It was by long planned and carefully elaborated treachery against an unsuspecting and unarmed people."

Meantime, reports from the Swedish frontier of Norway, stated that the British still are in possession of Dombaas, and intensified activity was reported around Narvik.

New British air raids against the German-held air bases in Norway and Denmark were announced officially in London.

Confirms Withdrawal

London, May 2.—The British war office today issued an official communique confirming withdrawal of all British forces from the south Trondheim region.

The statement said:

"The allied forces which have been carrying out delaying operations south of Trondheim in the past few days have now, after repulsing many enemy attacks, been withdrawn in the face of ever-increasing enemy strength.

"They were successfully embarked at Aandalsnes and ports in the neighborhood.

"This was done in spite of the enemy's incessant efforts to destroy those ports and communications by air action.

"In the Narvik area, operations are continuing and our detachments have been in contact with the enemy.

"There is nothing further to report from Namsos."

Ambassador Calls

William Phillips, U. S. ambassador to Rome, called on Mussolini yesterday. It was said they discussed improvement of American-Italian relations, but the talk also afforded Phillips an opportunity to obtain first-hand information on Italy's attitude toward the war.

Washington officials described as "promising" the outlook for the negotiation of a new treaty of commerce and friendship between the United States and Italy. One that had been in effect since 1871 was denounced in 1936 by the United States, which intended to replace it with a more modern agreement. Several obstacles, however, blocked this plan.

These difficulties are gradually being smoothed out—just how, officials would not reveal. Italy is said to be interested also in the negotiation of a reciprocal tariff reduction treaty of the type that Secretary Hull has signed with more than 20 nations.

Several Ships Sunk

One report said that "several ships" were sunk during the activity in the Kattegat, where the fighting took place under cover of darkness. This report, emanating from Gothenburg, was not confirmed.

Most advices agreed, however, that one vessel was seen in flames off Oeckeroe Island and that another was sunk within sight of the Marstand fortress.

The heaviest sea fighting apparently occurred off the coast somewhere north of Gothenburg. Residents of both Roeroe and Oeckeroe Islands reported hearing heavy gunfire that indicated a large scale engagement. Advices from these islands told of the dispersal of the German convoys.

Many aircraft took part in the engagement, evidently aiding the British surface units in their attempt to break up the German sea communications.

At the height of the battle, it was reported, some vessels halted to assist others which had been attacked, while other units of the convoys steamed doggedly toward the north.

German Withdrawal

Gunfire also was reported near the mouth of Oslo Fjord, indicating that the battle was spread over a wide area.

On land, the German withdrawal from both Roeros and Tynset also meant abandonment by the Nazis of a 30-mile stretch of railroad and highway connecting the two towns.

Reports from the battle area indicated the Germans fell back under severe pressure from British-Norwegian troops supported by Swedish and possibly Czechoslovakian and Polish volunteers.

Norwegian reports claimed that the Allies have established strong positions, including artillery emplacements, along the Dombaas-Stoeren railway, the vitally important communications line in Central Norway.

Despite the Allied claims, however, the true situation in Ceneral Norway remained obscure. It was believed official clarification would come only after the operations now in progress have ended and one side or the other has attained its immediate objectives.

armed people" for Britain's failure to aid Norway more speedily and effectively, Chamberlain ridiculed German claims that the British near Trondheim had retreated in wild disorder.

"It became evident to us some days ago," he said, "that it would be impossible—owing to the Germans' local air superiority, to land artillery and tanks which would have been necessary to enable our troops to withstand an enemy drive from the south.

"Accordingly we decided last week that we must abandon any idea of taking Trondheim from the south and that we must withdraw our troops from that area and transfer them elsewhere.

Withdraw Without Loss

"Thanks to the forces which the navy was able to bring to bear and the determination and skilful dispositions of General Paget, commanding the British land forces in that area, and backed by the splendid courage and tenacity of our troops, we have now withdrawn the whole of our forces at Aandalsnes under the very noses of German planes without so far as I am aware, losing a single man in the operations."

The commanding general in the Trondheim area is Major General Bernard Paget.

Chamberlain said he regretted that he was unable to detail the casualties in various operations.

"But," he said, "there is some reason to believe they have not been heavy in proportion to the scale of operations.

"I expect that we shall be able to get more detailed reports before long. I trust that this most distressing but inevitable period of uncertainty will not be prolonged.

"Although in the face of overwhelming difficulties it has not been possible to effect the capture of Trondheim, I am satisfied that the balance of advantage lies, up to the present, with the Allied forces."

Chamberlain's delivery was confident and gave not the slightest indication that Britain was "raising the white flag." He was greeted on several occasions by loud cheers.

The house appeared to receive announcement of the evacuation with relief rather than dismay, particularly since all members with active military experience have long been agitating for the British to "clear out" of the difficult situation south of Trondheim.

DECLARES BRITISH WILL NOT ABANDON NORWAY CAMPAIGN

Mediterranean en route to Alexandria denoting some new and probably spectacular allied strategy.

While Berlin announced that a new German junction had been effected on the west coast of Norway near Bergen, thus gripping the British in another pincers, Prime Minister Chamberlan spoke in the House of Commons before a packed audience of parliament members and diplomats from almost every country with representatives in Britain.

United States Ambassador Joseph P. Kennedy, however, was kept away by "the pressure of important business."

Chamberlain Asks Patience

Begging the members of the house to exercise patience a little longer before he could give the complete story of the Norwegian campaign, Chamberlain proceeded to make what he called an "interim statement", and said he hoped that Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, would be able "to say a great deal more next week."

Britain has kept a small force in readiness to occupy Norwegian western ports for the past month, the prime minister declared. But this force was only to be used in the event of a violation of Norway's neutrality, he continued, or in the event Britain was invited by the Norwegian government to carry out an occupation of the country.

Planned Treachery

"It has been asked," Chamberlain declared, "how in spite of these preparations, Germany has been able to forestall us. The answer is simple. It was by long planned and carefully elaborated treachery against an unsuspecting and unarmed people."

Meantime, reports from the Swedish frontier of Norway, stated that the British still are in possession of Dombaas, and intensified activity was reported around Narvik.

New British air raids against the German-held air bases in Norway and Denmark were announced officially in London.

Confirms Withdrawal

London, May 2.—The British war office today issued an official communique confirming withdrawal of all British forces from the south Trondheim region.

The statement said:

"The allied forces which have been carrying out delaying operations south of Trondheim in the past few days have now, after repulsing many enemy attacks, been withdrawn in the face of ever-increasing enemy strength.

"They were successfully embarked at Aandalsnes and ports in the neighborhood.

"This was done in spite of the enemy's incessant efforts to destroy those ports and communications by air action.

"In the Narvik area, operations are continuing and our detachments have been in contact with the enemy.

"There is nothing further to report from Namsos."

MUSSOLINI PLAYS POLITICAL GAME TO AID HITLER

Only the Spanish-Portuguese coast and the Mediterranean are open to American-flag vessels now, other European waters having been placed in the "barred zone" by presidential proclamation.

Ambassador Calls

William Phillips, U. S. ambassador to Rome, called on Mussolini yesterday. It was said they discussed improvement of American-Italian relations, but the talk also afforded Phillips an opportunity to obtain first-hand information on Italy's attitude toward the war.

Washington officials described as "promising" the outlook for the negotiation of a new treaty of commerce and friendship between the United States and Italy. One that had been in effect since 1871 was denounced in 1936 by the United States, which intended to replace it with a more modern agreement. Several obstacles, however, blocked this plan.

These difficulties are gradually being smoothed out—just how, officials would not reveal. Italy is said to be interested also in the negotiation of a reciprocal tariff reduction treaty of the type that Secretary Hull has signed with more than 20 nations.

cuss matters of the utmost gravity

The White House also announced that Joseph E. Davies, special assistant to the secretary of state in charge of war problems, would see the president immediately after Colonna's departure. This added to the belief that the ambassador sought to discuss with the president American Italian relations and the possible effect upon them of Italy's entrance into the war.

Astute Washington diplomatic observers believe that Italy is playing a shrewd international game designed to prevent strengthening of allied navy forces in the Scandinavian war theatre in order to help Mussolini's axis partner, Adolf Hitler of Germany.

AMERICAN SHIPPING STAGES A COMEBACK

WHILE many American industries have been hard hit by the European war and by the necessary precautions taken by our country to guard its neutrality, it is good news that our shipping to foreign ports has risen to a ten-year peak.

This report is especially welcome in view of the forebodings that accompanied discussion of the new Neutrality Bill. In its original form the bill prohibited American vessels from entering not only combat zones, but ports in such faraway regions as Australia, New Zealand, Hong Kong, South Africa and India.

American commerce with Bermuda, Jamaica and French ports in the Caribbean would also have been prohibited.

The bill was wisely amended to permit trade with ports of belligerent countries far removed from the scenes of hostilities, with the proviso that should the war later extend to those areas the president could exercise his authority to designate combat zones closed to our vessels.

But even after this amendement, fears for the American merchant marine, built up at such cost to the taxpayers, persisted. The expected boom in trade with South America did not materialize, largely for the reason that our southern neighbors lacked cash to purchase our products and had little to offer in exchange except goods that would compete with our own.

As an offset there have been the sinking of hundreds of thousands of Allied tonnage and the bottling-up of the German merchant fleet. The German invasion of Denmark and Norway has also crippled the shipping of those countries. Last October congress was talking of special subsidies to our merchant marine on account of the war. It is encouraging to know that such help will not be needed. American shipping is definitely "coming back."

WAR REVEALS OUTRAGED HOSTS

For some reason being an international Santa Claus never pays dividends. Possibly it is the spirit of patriotism which blinds folk of almost any given country, when the opportunity comes to take selfish advantage of another nation, to the fact that that nation has once done them a good service.

Take Norway, which has been puzzled by the large number of invading Nazi officers and soldiers who speak Norwegian fluently. There is a great difference between the German and the Norwegian tongues and Norwegian is not taught in German schools. What is the explanation?

Well, after the World War, Norway, its sympathies touched, took thousands of under-nourished German children, distributing them among the homes of the little country. These children became members of Norwegian families and went to Norway's schools. When they came of age, they were returned to Germany.

Now they have returned as violators of Norway's freedom. And the Norwegians, thinking it over, can not possibly conclude that twenty years ago they were entertaining angels unaware.

TETRAZZINI

Mme. Luisa Tetrazzini, who is dead in Milan at the age of sixty-eight, belonged to the golden age of grand opera, an age made luminous by the names of Caruso, Scotti, Ruffo, Mary Garden and Schumann-Heink, as well as her own.

Mme. Tetrazzini was a superbly gifted woman, both artistically and temperamentally. Her voice, while somewhat lacking in volume, was of unsurpassed quality and her vocal equipment was so perfect that she sang with a minimum of effort and thus was enabled to retain with but little impairment, even in the later years of her life, the birdlike quality of tone which gave her distinction among the great artists of her time.

Her life was not devoid of its sorrows and misfortunes. Nevertheless, she had a great passion for life and a deep and sincere affection for humanity, not merely her personal friends, of whom she had many in all parts of the world, but the masses of men and women.

Like so many artists in all times and lands, Mme. Tetrazzini was irresponsible in many practical matters, principally those concerning her own material interests. She earned a fabulous income and died in comparative poverty. It is perhaps the supreme tribute to her admirable character and her sweetness of disposition that her last sad days found her unembittered.

THIRD TERM STRAW VOTE

Fortune magazine has just published a survey of public opinion which confirms its own previous polls and those of the American Institute of Public Opinion which is to the effect that, while Mr. Roosevelt is decidedly the most popular member of his party, he would not be elected for a third term if he went before the electorate today.

The magazine, whose interpretation of a cross section of public sentiment has been remarkably accurate in the past and is carried out on a scientific basis, reports that Mr. Roosevelt would fail of election by a margin of eight per cent if he ran for a third term. In terms of the popular vote this would mean that he would fail to win by several million votes.

The magazine did not undertake to include in its questionnaire every favorite son, all over the country, but asked, "Which is your choice for our next president among these six Democrats and six Republicans?" It then listed the six outstanding names in each party.

The voters who picked Roosevelt were placed at an index of 35.8, while Garner came next among Democrats with 5.6, Hull with 4.7, while McNutt, Farley and Jackson trailed in the order named. Dewey was the Republican choice, with Taft next.

Straw vote prognostications threaten to be more numerous than ever this year, but the election will be held anyway. There is just a chance that the scientific samplers of public opinion may be wrong.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

PREPARING BOY FOR COURTING

We parents often overlook the fact that the all-absorbing concern of the son or daughter, early in the teens, is whether he or she will "rate" with the opposite sex. It is of no use for us to try to laugh this off.

But don't some boys in their teens reveal indifference toward girls? Yes; some do appear to do so. But unless the youth lacks normal physical development, he hardly feels indifferent, even when he seems to be. As a rule, his apparent attitude toward girls is a smoke screen. Back of it may be all sorts of emotional turbulence and yearning. His misleading attitude may be a carry-over of his pre-adolescent, genuine contempt for girls and a feeling of superiority toward them. Ordinarily, however, the youth who normally avoids the girls does so from overwhelming fears that he might be rejected.

Boy Who Waits

Often the youth who ventures his first date abnormally late is likely to be attracted to a girl much older or one whom most persons would consider his inferior. She is more easily approached. Her readiness to accept his friendship and attentions eases his fears and feelings of inadequacy.

Unfortunately, many parents express satisfaction over the son, or over the daughter, who shows no interest in the opposite sex. They say: "I have no worries about him being out late. I always know he is home and safe. He rarely wants the car and doesn't 'waste money' on girls as so many other boys do."

As a rule, these parents little know the inner turmoils of this boy's heart or realize the still greater problems destined to beset him later.

Wise parents begin when their boy is a baby to prepare him for wholesome courting when the normal time arrives. They cultivate in him self-reliance physically and emotionally; they train him in good habits of self-management and responsibility; they bring him up to have due regard for the rights and feelings of others, to respect their body and person; they educate him in wholesome sex attitudes; they help him learn to get along well and happily with his playmates.

His parents help him attract to his home many boys and girls who keep coming during their teens, finding rich enjoyments there. They help him gain skills at social fun and acquire the social graces. He will find that good manners are valuable for helping him be popular and feel comfortable with the opposite sex.

The wise father and mother will lead their son to have lofty ideals in respect to his treatment of a girl, helping him also to realize what a mother expects of a boy who has a date with her daughter, and to see that his best chance for winning the girl is through respecting her parents' standards.

Guided well by his parents, the son will have learned to operate on a budget or allowance and follow a family plan in the use of the car, so that his parents and he will have no unhappy experiences over such matters.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. If you had to choose between a "bad" playmate and no playmate for your child over two or three, what would be your choice?

A. The "bad" playmate. I can thing of nothing more pathetic than the lonely child who has no friends. Anyway, how can a child acquire moral character in a social cell?

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

HOW MUCH IS HIGH?

The extravagance of the present administration in Washington is simply beyond belief.

In the first one hundred forty-four years of the history of these United States, our government spent $112,203,367,065. This figure, as well as the following figures, are taken from the United States Treasury Reports. The yearly average expends of government for these one hundred forty-hour years was less than a billion dollars.

Five wars were fought during these one hundred forty-four years and the public debt at the end of this time was $22,500,000,000. Now, that is not such a bad record for a great nation, but during the last eight years of the present administration in Washington, the government has spent $65,628,526,692, a yearly average of more than $8,000,000,000, and there were no wars during those eight years. The public debt now is more than $44,000,000,000. It can therefore, be easily figured that it has cost forty-four per cent as much to operate our government during the past eight years as it did the previous one hundred forty-four years and the public debt has been practically doubled.

Has this nation reached the stage where, to the citizens, the public debt has become just so many figures?

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:56. Sun rises tomorrow 4:57.

One great trouble in this country is that too many men are elected to public office who have not had any real business experience or success. They are the boys who can tell you what to do, however.

Here is a yarn about the absent-minded dentist, who said soothingly, as he applied a monkey wrench to his automobile: "Now, this is going to hurt just a little."

Well, we must admit it, after the housecleaning is over, things do look a lot better.

LIFE INSURANCE

Insurance solicitors are so inconsistent! First they convince you that you are likely to die any minute, to get you to apply for a policy. Then they won't issue the policy until they convince themselves that you are likely to live for years and years.

But we owe a world of gratitude to the insurance men. They have done more than any other body of workers to keep our taxes down. If it were not for their activities half of us would be "broke" paying taxes to maintain almshouses for the support of the indigent widows and orphans of the other half.—Nuggets.

"I don't see why this man should be here as a defendant," said the judge, inspecting the battered looking personage before him. "The man seems to be pretty much of a physical wreck." "He wasn't before he tried to tell me how to run the house," said the embattled plaintiff, squaring her shoulders.

When a local woman asked her husband what he had done with the hoe she had bought, he replied: "I placed it in the hoe department."

A local man said in a dream he thought someone had stolen his watch. When asked if it was gone, he replied, "No, but it was going."

A woman with her beloved applying for a marriage license, when told the form had to be properly filled out, said:

"We can get married, no difference how my form is made out."

We have noticed recently that most all institutions employing help are trying to cut down the expenses of production. This is being caused by increased costs and all kinds of taxes. Small institutions, of course, suffer the most from these things. Not good.

When your passenger flips a cigarette from the front window, and you think you smell something burning, it's the back seat cushion.

I don't know about telling a man's character by his chin, but I sure can tell when he shaved or if he had eggs for breakfast.

An expert is a man who gets a salary for telling other people how to do things he can't do himself.

INTERESTING LETTER

The News received a letter from Mrs. Wesley D. Cram, Randolph, Vt., asking for a copy of a paper August 26th, 1909, in which an address by Col. W. W. Stevenson gave at a family reunion of Magee and Munnell.

Mr. Stevenson is paid a great compliment to know his address given at that time is wanted by Mrs. Cram to be given at a meeting in Vermont. Mrs. Cram was, before her marriage, Hester Knapp, and a favorite nurse in some of the pioneer families. In the letter she wants to know about Bess Boyle, Beryl Brown Jameson and their families and Lewis Cobau Mather, his cousins, the Cobau boy, the Kirks—adds what have these children done to make a mark for themselves. Throw my best to anyone you chance to see—Dell Davidson, for instance. I think of old New Castle days and the many I knew there, and wish I could see them all.

With love and best wishes,
HESTER KAMP CRAM,

Now it looks as if loaf begins at 40—or sooner.

"Lie down, doggie," said the visitor, speaking to the family pup.

"You can't get him to do it that way," advised the young son of the house. "You'll have to say 'lie down, mister.' That's a Boston terrier."

Good Taste

Reg. U. S. Patent Office

Too often, in these days of rush and bustle, aged people receive slight consideration from those who control traffic or handle crowds entering or leaving theaters, buses, street cars, railway trains, elevators and entrances to shops. We now hear old people say that they stay away from the crowded city center because of fear that they won't get across the street before traffic turns, or that they may get caught in a car or elevator door slammed by an attendant impatient with those whose unsteady knees can no longer work with agility. In a few cities the intermediate yellow light still gives Grandfather and Grandmother a chance to get entirely across the concrete before the onrush of roaring trucks, oil-tankers, buses and pleasure cars resumes. And on public conveyances, there still are even in this generation, a few guards, conductors or brakemen who—mindful of white-haired grandparents of their own—give aged patrons a chance to enter or alight and thus spare their wornout hearts and worn-out legs.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I have been invited to attend a bridal shower given in honor of a girl in my sorority. I have never met the shower hostess. Must I send my regrets—and a gift, too?—Marie.

Answer: By all means send your regrets if you cannot attend. To ignore the invitation would be rude indeed, as the hostess will prepare for all whom she has invited; and courtesy demands that you let her know that you will not be present. Send a gift, too. If you neglect to do so, your absence may be misconstrued by both the bride-to-be and the other members of your sorority, who may then think that you did not attend because you did not wish to give the bride-to-be a gift.

The minister's brow darkened, and Willie hastened to explain. "Oh he ain't gonna play any golf. Not on Sunday. He just went over for a few drinks and a game of poker."

Which leads us to wonder whether Mr. Garner could have built a better mousetrap.

Discuss American-Japanese War
Would Benefit Hitler Just Now
Claim Germany Is Stirring Idea

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Shanghai reports that Germany is trying to stir up a war between Japan and the United States lack confirmation but they have a sufficient air of plausibility to have set the state department to investigating them with a vengeance. The story, at least, appears to be believed in London, Paris and The Hague, which got it in official consular advices from their representatives in the Chinese city. Just why our own, British, French and Dutch diplomats in Tokio missed it isn't very clear. It's considered well worth looking into, anyway.

To begin with, a chain of Japanese newspapers recently related, on what purported to be reliable information, that the minute the Germans invade Holland, the British and French will seize the Netherlands East Indies, shutting off all supplies from there to Nippon. This would be very serious for the Japanese, who are greatly dependent upon the East Indies for many of their vitally necessary raw materials, notably oil and rubber.

Tokio Gets Busy

The obvious conclusion was that it behooves the mikado to grab the islands ahead of the British and French. It was a conclusion which the Tokio government immediately drew, for it began at once to forecast the urgency of a speedy grab of Japan's own.

It was a forecast which, in turn, promptly elicited Secretary of State Cordell Hull's warning that no grabbing must be done, so far as the East Indies are concerned.

Naturally, Japanese-American relations were strained. Secretary Hull's warning, to be sure, was as applicable to the British and French as to Japan. However, the British and French wouldn't object a bit to having the East Indies protected by the United States, and Japan would. The British and French would like it, in fact; it would take a dubious job from off their hands. But the Japanese want those islands for themselves.

No Accident About It

If this were just an accidental development it wouldn't signify so much.

However, the British, French and Dutch consulates in Shanghai contend that there was no accident about it.

Their account is that German Ambassador l'Ugore Ott, in Tokio, paid that newspaper chain in Japan 20,000 yen to publish a yarn of his own, calculated to create an overwhelming Japanese demand for an overnight Japanese seizure of the Indies, in defiance of Yankee wishes, thus precipitating a Jap-American crisis in short order.

The German's reason for desiring such an armed clash is easy to see.

Tough Fight For Us

It would be a mean scrap for Uncle Samuel. At short range the latter is too heavy a weight for the mikado, but it would pre-occupy him decidedly to have to handle hostilities away across the Pacific in the Netherlands East Indies waters.

Such a war would keep Uncle Sam out of Europe, on the off-chance that he finally were to think of butting in on the west front. And, anti-war as we seem to be, Herr Hitler doesn't disregard that contingency, remembering the last time. And furthermore, Herr Hitler undoubtedly reckons that, engaged with the Japanese, we'd have to keep the bulk of our war supplies for ourselves; not send them to the Allies.

I'm not predicting that such a situation will follow. I simply am suggesting that it's what this Shanghai story appears to contemplate.

Slick Propaganda

It's rather slick propaganda, if that's what it is.

It's triangular.

It isn't perpetrated directly on us. Propaganda in our own country we can largely guard against. But no Dies committee can cross the Pacific to expose it in Japan.

What the state department can do about it is problematic

Secretary Hull is trying to be as warming and yet as pacific as he can.

Nevertheless, seemingly he has a mean competitor in mischief-making German Ambassador Ott, evidently an extremely competent German propagandistic chain newspaperman.

And no disgrace at all would lie
Upon the ones who turned about
Thinking it wiser not to try.

The road was rough, the way was long,
The burden one but few would bear,
Many would not have deemed it wrong
To drop the matter then and there.

Of nine in ten it could be said
To spare themselves the risk they'd choose

The Great Game Of Politics

By FRANK R. KENT

A Political Suggestion

Washington, May 2.

IT has been the generally accepted view that the political party which holds its national convention last has a certain advantage over its rival. It can profit by the mistakes, both of omission and commission, of the opposition—particularly as to platform. It can act with more deliberation and less apprehension. That has been the theory.

HENCE, it was considered smart politics when some months ago Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley so maneuvered that the Republicans were compelled to fix a date ahead of the Democrats, though, being the party in power, normally and logically the latter should have led off. As things are shaping up, that move does not seem as clever now as it did then. Disadvantages as well as advantages begin to appear. In compelling the Republicans to present their program first, the Democrats voluntarily have relinquished the opportunity for leadership which was naturally theirs and accepted a position where they will seem to be following rather than leading.

THE Republicans now have the chance to make the first bid for popular support on a number of matters upon which public sentiment runs strongly. Unquestionably, their present tendency is toward taking a stand against American involvement in the European war which will appeal to the numerous voters — particularly women—who want to stay out at all costs. The political advantage of being the peace party rather than the war party is so obvious that it would be contrary to human as well as political nature not to strive for it. Therefore, it can be taken for granted that the Republicans will go as far as they dare to convince the people that success of the Republican ticket is the one way to avoid involvement.

AS pointed out in this place yesterday, to avoid being made to seem the war party in the campaign, the Democrats practically will be forced to take a stand against the extension of credits to the Allies, or the extension of any other form of help beyond what we are now giving, almost—if not quite—as emphatic. Thus, to what many thoughtful men think is the national disadvantage, both parties on this overwhelmingly vital issue will reflect the urge of their politicians to get votes rather than the opinion of their more enlightened leaders.

BUT it is not only with the problems of the war that this party competition in the matter of platforms operates badly. It will be al-

WASHINGTON—Governor Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, Republican, criticizing the New Deal:

"I do not think that the people of this land of ours are tired of liberal government. I think they are tired of do-nothing government. They are tired of government under which for eight years the economy of this nation has stood still."

EDINBURGH—Sir Archibald Sinclair, liberal party leader in parliament, warning that unless Britain is vigorous in Norway the neutrals will climb on the Nazi bandwagon:

"Neutrals have gained the impression that we are good but slow, vacillating and ineffective, while the Germans are swift and terrible. Although we can muddle through to a victory in the long run, we pay for the feebleness of our political direction by prolongation of the war."

NEW YORK—U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D), Montana, announcing his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination:

"Frankly, if President Roosevelt is out, I am a candidate. But if he wants it he can get the nomination and there is no use kidding yourself."

ROME—Virginio Gayda, principal editorial spokesman for Premier Mussolini:

"No great power bases its foreign policy and relations with other nations on romantic feeling contained in volatile spiritual phrases. Great nations defend their interests above all. They pursue a policy based on realism and on immediate or future usefulness. Their rapprochements with other nations are determined only by carefully gauged usefulness."

AMERICAN SHIPPING STAGES A COMEBACK

WHILE many American industries have been hard hit by the European war and by the necessary precautions taken by our country to guard its neutrality, it is good news that our shipping to foreign ports has risen to a ten-year peak.

This report is especially welcome in view of the forebodings that accompanied discussion of the new Neutrality Bill. In its original form the bill prohibited American vessels from entering not only combat zones, but ports in such faraway regions as Australia, New Zealand, Hong Kong, South Africa and India.

American commerce with Bermuda, Jamaica and French ports in the Caribbean would also have been prohibited.

The bill was wisely amended to permit trade with ports of belligerent countries far removed from the scenes of hostilities, with the proviso that should the war later extend to those areas the president could exercise his authority to designate combat zones closed to our vessels.

But even after this amendement, fears for the American merchant marine, built up at such cost to the taxpayers, persisted. The expected boom in trade with South America did not materialize, largely for the reason that our southern neighbors lacked cash to purchase our products and had little to offer in exchange except goods that would compete with our own.

As an offset there have been the sinking of hundreds of thousands of Allied tonnage and the bottling-up of the German merchant fleet. The German invasion of Denmark and Norway has also crippled the shipping of those countries. Last October congress was talking of special subsidies to our merchant marine on account of the war. It is encouraging to know that such help will not be needed. American shipping is definitely "coming back."

WAR REVEALS OUTRAGED HOSTS

For some reason being an international Santa Claus never pays dividends. Possibly it is the spirit of patriotism which blinds folk of almost any given country, when the opportunity comes to take selfish advantage of another nation, to the fact that that nation has once done them a good service.

Take Norway, which has been puzzled by the large number of invading Nazi officers and soldiers who speak Norwegian fluently. There is a great difference between the German and the Norwegian tongues and Norwegian is not taught in German schools. What is the explanation?

Well, after the World War, Norway, its sympathies touched, took thousands of under-nourished German children, distributing them among the homes of the little country. These children became members of Norwegian families and went to Norway's schools. When they came of age, they were returned to Germany.

Now they have returned as violators of Norway's freedom. And the Norwegians, thinking it over, can not possibly conclude that twenty years ago they were entertaining angels unaware.

Solving Parent Problems

Q. If you had to choose between a "bad" playmate and no playmate for your child over two or three, what would be your choice?

A. The "bad" playmate. I can thing of nothing more pathetic than the lonely child who has no friends. Anyway, how can a child acquire moral character in a social cell?

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

HOW MUCH IS HIGH?

The extravagance of the present administration in Washington is simply beyond belief.

In the first one hundred forty-four years of the history of these United States, our government spent $112,203,367,065. This figure, as well as the following figures, are taken from the United States Treasury Reports. The yearly average expends of government for these one hundred forty-hour years was less than a billion dollars.

Five wars were fought during these one hundred forty-four years and the public debt at the end of this time was $22,500,000,000. Now, that is not such a bad record for a great nation, but during the last eight years of the present administration in Washington, the government has spent $65,628,526,692, a yearly average of more than $8,000,000,000, and there were no wars during those eight years. The public debt now is more than $44,000,000,000. It can therefore, be easily figured that it has cost forty-four per cent as much to operate our government during the past eight years as it did the previous one hundred forty-four years and the public debt has been practically doubled.

Has this nation reached the stage where, to the citizens, the public debt has become just so many figures?

Toonerville Folks By FONTAINE FOX

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 6:56. Sun rises tomorrow 4:57.

One great trouble in this country is that too many men are elected to public office who have not had any real business experience or success. They are the boys who can tell you what to do, however.

Here is a yarn about the absent-minded dentist, who said soothingly, as he applied a monkey wrench to his automobile: "Now, this is going to hurt just a little."

Well, we must admit it, after the housecleaning is over, things do look a lot better.

LIFE INSURANCE

Insurance solicitors are so inconsistent! First they convince you that you are likely to die any minute, to get you to apply for a policy. Then they won't issue the policy until they convince themselves that you are likely to live for years and years.

But we owe a world of gratitude to the insurance men. They have done more than any other body of workers to keep our taxes down. If it were not for their activities half of us would be "broke" paying taxes to maintain almshouses for the support of the indigent widows and orphans of the other half.—Nuggets.

"I don't see why this man should be here as a defendant," said the judge, inspecting the battered looking personage before him. "The man seems to be pretty much of a physical wreck." "He wasn't before he tried to tell me how to run the house," said the embattled plaintiff, squaring her shoulders.

When a local woman asked her husband what he had done with the hoe she had bought, he replied: "I placed it in the hoe department."

A local man said in a dream he thought someone had stolen his watch. When asked if it was gone, he replied, "No, but it was going."

A woman with her beloved applying for a marriage license, when told the form had to be properly filled out, said:

"We can get married, no difference how my form is made out."

We have noticed recently that most all institutions employing help are trying to cut down the expenses of production. This is being caused by increased costs and all kinds of taxes. Small institutions, of course, suffer the most from these things. Not good.

When your passenger flips a cigarette from the front window, and you think you smell something burning, it's the back seat cushion.

I don't know about telling a man's character by his chin, but I sure can tell when he shaved or if he had eggs for breakfast.

An expert is a man who gets a salary for telling other people how to do things he can't do himself.

INTERESTING LETTER

The News received a letter from Mrs. Wesley D. Cram, Randolph, Vt., asking for a copy of a paper August 26th, 1909, in which an address by Col. W. W. Stevenson gave at a family reunion of Magee and Munnell.

Mr. Stevenson is paid a great compliment to know his address given at that time is wanted by Mrs. Cram to be given at a meeting in Vermont. Mrs. Cram was, before her marriage, Hester Knapp, and a favorite nurse in some of the pioneer families. In the letter she wants to know about Bess Boyle, Beryl Brown Jameson and their families and Lewis Cobau Mather, his cousins, the Cobau boy, the Kirks—adds what have these children done to make a mark for themselves. Throw my best to anyone you chance to see—Dell Davidson, for instance. I think of old New Castle days and the many I knew there, and wish I could see them all.

With love and best wishes,
HESTER KAMP CRAM,
Randolph, Vt.

Now it looks as if loaf begins at 40—or sooner.

"Lie down, doggie," said the visitor, speaking to the family pup.

"You can't get him to do it that way," advised the young son of the house. "You'll have to say 'lie down, mister.' That's a Boston terrier."

Good Taste

Too often, in these days of rush and bustle, aged people receive slight consideration from those who control traffic or handle crowds entering or leaving theaters, buses, street cars, railway trains, elevators and entrances to shops. We now hear old people say that they stay away from the crowded city center because of fear that they won't get across the street before traffic turns, or that they may get caught in a car or elevator door slammed by an attendant impatient with those whose unsteady knees can no longer work with agility. In a few cities the intermediate yellow light still gives Grandfather and Grandmother a chance to get entirely across the concrete before the onrush of roaring trucks, oil-tankers, buses and pleasure cars resumes. And on public conveyances, there still are even in this generation, a few guards, conductors or brakemen who—mindful of white-haired grandparents of their own—give aged patrons a chance to enter or alight and thus spare their wornout hearts and worn-out legs.

Readers' Questions Answered

Dear Miss Markel: I have been invited to attend a bridal shower given in honor of a girl in my sorority. I have never met the shower hostess. Must I send my regrets—and a gift, too?—Marie.

Answer: By all means send your regrets if you cannot attend. To ignore the invitation would be rude indeed, as the hostess will prepare for all whom she has invited; and courtesy demands that you let her know that you will not be present. Send a gift, too. If you neglect to do so, your absence may be misconstrued by both the bride-to-be and the other members of your sorority, who may then think that you did not attend because you did not wish to give the bride-to-be a gift.

Miss Markel will promptly mail personal answers to questions from any reader enclosing self-addressed three-cent stamped envelope.

WHEN AGE COMES

Soon Youth will flee and Age draw near—
It adds not to my joy:
To stay Time's hand from all things dear,
My wits I must employ.

So when Age comes to visit me,
You'll hear me loudly shout.
"Go 'way, old Age!....Cannot you see
That I am going out?"

Hi Hum says one has no idea how times flies until he stops to think how long it has been since he stepped on a woman's skirt and tore it.

Remember back in the old days when the police pulled the places where poker was being played?

PATIENCE IN REVERSE

Office Grouch: "A man who sits in a swamp all day waiting to shoot a duck will kick if his wife has dinner 10 minutes late."

Who can remember when a man's financial standing was obtained from a bank and not a garage or filling station?

Out in an East Brook home they have a clock they call the Visitor, because the family can never make it go.

The minister called at the home on Sunday afternoon and little Willie answered the bell.

"Pa ain't home," he announced. "He went over to the golf club."

The minister's brow darkened, and Willie hastened to explain. "Oh he ain't gonna play any golf. Not on Sunday. He just went over for a few drinks and a game of poker."

We heard a story the other day about a boy, whose name we have forgotten. He was asked to write an essay in as few words as possible on two of life's greatest problems. He wrote: "twins".

Times must still be getting better, as more preachers are leaving their jobs to accept jobs in other places at bigger salaries.

OR VOTE TRAP

Reports from Washington tell us that all sorts of politicos are beating a path to the vice president's door.

Which leads us to wonder whether Mr. Garner could have built a better mousetrap.

Any time we begin to lose faith in America and in American ways it is well to leaf back to the pages of history that have marked the return to reason after every wild escapade.

A man's word is no longer his bond, and 'tis said, even in Scotland they prefer one-armed ushers to pass the collection plate in the kirk.

Yet old-timers can remember a pay-as-you-go period when the man who owned a car had money in the bank.

We have read about quite a few gals who, when attacked by a robber, yelled so loud the police came galloping up. A good wild yell is often more effective than a machine gun.

A Volant pap is figuring out a way to keep his son from going out with a certain gal. He contemplates going out with her himself

UNKIND

'Darling, how could you live without me?" sobbed the wife as hubby growled about things in general.

"Cheaper, a heck of a lot cheaper," repiled the brute.

Hope stands up pretty well considering the rough usage it gets.

When you see a submarine duck under, it's difficult to tell whether it is looking for trouble or just trying to get out of a jam.

What's What At A Glance

Discuss American-Japanese War
Would Benefit Hitler Just Now
Claim Germany Is Stirring Idea

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Shanghai reports that Germany is trying to stir up a war between Japan and the United States lack confirmation but they have a sufficient air of plausibility to have set the state department to investigating them with a vengeance. The story, at least, appears to be believed in London, Paris and The Hague, which got it in official consular advices from their representatives in the Chinese city. Just why our own, British, French and Dutch diplomats in Tokio missed it isn't very clear. It's considered well worth looking into, anyway.

To begin with, a chain of Japanese newspapers recently related, on what purported to be reliable information, that the minute the Germans invade Holland, the British and French will seize the Netherlands East Indies, shutting off all supplies from there to Nippon. This would be very serious for the Japanese, who are greatly dependent upon the East Indies for many of their vitally necessary raw materials, notably oil and rubber.

Tokio Gets Busy

The obvious conclusion was that it behooves the mikado to grab the islands ahead of the British and French. It was a conclusion which the Tokio government immediately drew, for it began at once to forecast the urgency of a speedy grab of Japan's own.

It was a forecast which, in turn, promptly elicited Secretary of State Cordell Hull's warning that no grabbing must be done, so far as the East Indies are concerned.

Naturally, Japanese-American relations were strained. Secretary Hull's warning, to be sure, was as applicable to the British and French as to Japan. However, the British and French wouldn't object a bit to having the East Indies protected by the United States, and Japan would. The British and French would like it, in fact; it would take a dubious job from off their hands. But the Japanese want those islands for themselves.

No Accident About It

If this were just an accidental development it wouldn't signify so much.

However, the British, French and Dutch consulates in Shanghai contend that there was no accident about it.

Their account is that German Ambassador l'Ugore Ott, in Tokio, paid that newspaper chain in Japan 20,000 yen to publish a yarn of his own, calculated to create an overwhelming Japanese demand for an overnight Japanese seizure of the Indies, in defiance of Yankee wishes, thus precipitating a Jap-American crisis in short order.

The German's reason for desiring such an armed clash is easy to see.

Tough Fight For Us

It would be a mean scrap for Uncle Samuel. At short range the latter is too heavy a weight for the mikado, but it would pre-occupy him decidedly to have to handle hostilities away across the Pacific in the Netherlands East Indies' waters.

Such a war would keep Uncle Sam out of Europe, on the offchance that he finally were to think of butting in on the west front. And, anti-war as we seem to be, Herr Hitler doesn't disregard that contingency, remembering the last time. And furthermore, Herr Hitler undoubtedly reckons that, engaged with the Japanese, we'd have to keep the bulk of our war supplies for ourselves; not send them to the Allies.

I'm not predicting that such a situation will follow. I simply am suggesting that it's what this Shanghai story appears to contemplate.

Slick Propaganda

It's rather slick propaganda, if that's what it is.

It's triangular.

It isn't perpetrated directly on us. Propaganda in our own country we can largely guard against. But no Dies committee can cross the Pacific to expose it in Japan.

What the state department can do about it is problematic

Secretary Hull is trying to be as warning and yet as pacific as he can.

Nevertheless, seemingly he has a mean competitor in mischief-making German Ambassador Ott, evidently an extremely competent German propagandistic chain newsperman.

HAZARD

'Twas difficult to do, no doubt,
And no disgrace at all would lie
Upon the ones who turned about
Thinking it wiser not to try.

The road was rough, the way was long,
The burden one but few would bear.
Many would not have deemed it wrong
To drop the matter then and there.

Of nine in ten it could be said
To spare themselves the risk they'd choose
Rather than face what loomed ahead
And take the chance, perhaps to lose.

But one of failure unafraid
And willing every risk to run,
The price of high adventure paid!
And what some feared to try was done.

A Political Suggestion

Washington, May 2.

IT has been the generally accepted view that the political party which holds its national convention last has a certain advantage over its rival. It can profit by the mistakes, both of omission and commission, of the opposition—particularly as to platform. It can act with more deliberation and less apprehension. That has been the theory.

HENCE, it was considered smart politics when some months ago Mr. Roosevelt and Mr. Farley so maneuvered that the Republicans were compelled to fix a date ahead of the Democrats, though, being the party in power, normally and logically the latter should have led off. As things are shaping up, that move does not seem as clever now as it did then. Disadvantages as well as advantages begin to appear. In compelling the Republicans to present their program first, the Democrats voluntarily have relinquished the opportunity for leadership which was naturally theirs and accepted a position where they will seem to be following rather than leading.

THE Republicans now have the chance to make the first bid for popular support on a number of matters upon which public sentiment runs strongly. Unquestionably, their present tendency is toward taking a stand against American involvement in the European war which will appeal to the numerous voters — particularly women—who want to stay out at all costs. The political advantage of being the peace party rather than the war party is so obvious that it would be contrary to human as well as political nature not to strive for it. Therefore, it can be taken for granted that the Republicans will go as far as they dare to convince the people that success of the Republican ticket is the one way to avoid involvement.

AS pointed out in this place yesterday, to avoid being made to seem the war party in the campaign, the Democrats practically will be forced to take a stand against the extension of credits to the Allies, or the extension of any other form of help beyond what we are now giving, almost—if not quite—as emphatic. Thus, to what many thoughtful men think is the national disadvantage, both parties on this overwhelmingly vital issue will reflect the urge of their politicians to get votes rather than the opinion of their more enlightened leaders.

BUT it is not only with the problems of the war that this party competition in the matter of platforms operates badly. It will be al-

What Noted People Say

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Governor Raymond E. Baldwin of Connecticut, Republican, criticizing the New Deal:

"I do not think that the people of this land of ours are tired of liberal government. I think they are tired of do-nothing government. They are tired of government under which for eight years the economy of this nation has stood still."

EDINBURGH—Sir Archibald Sinclair, liberal party leader in parliament, warning that unless Britain is vigorous in Norway the neutrals will climb on the Nazi bandwagon:

"Neutrals have gained the impression that we are good but slow, vacillating and ineffective, while the Germans are swift and terrible. Although we can muddle through to a victory in the long run, we pay for the feebleness of our political direction by prolongation of the war."

NEW YORK—U. S. Senator Burton K. Wheeler (D), Montana, announcing his candidacy for the Democratic presidential nomination:

"Frankly, if President Roosevelt is out, I am a candidate. But if he wants it he can get the nomination and there is no use kidding yourself."

ROME—Virginio Gayda, principal editorial spokesman for Premier Mussolini:

"No great power bases its foreign policy and relations with other nations on romantic feeling contained in volatile spiritual phrases. Great nations defend their interests above all. They pursue a policy based on realism and on immediate or future usefulness. Their rapprochements with other nations are determined only by carefully gauged usefulness."

most equally unsatisfactory on such questions as Federal aid for the farmers, relief for the unemployed, labor relations and old-age pensions. Behind each of these proposals there is a strong, organized, militant, voluble and numerically formidable group of voters. Inevitably, the Republicans, with the opportunity to make the initial bid and the fear of being outbidden by the Democrats two weeks later, will go, as in the matter of war involvement, just as fa ras they dare in the effort to win support of all these groups. Careful not to put themselves in position to alienate business opposition to the New Deal, they nevertheless, if they can, will make it impossible for the Democrats to outpromise them without going off the deep end.

INEVITABLY this puts pressure on the Democrats, at least, to match the promises of the other party to these organized voting minorities, the support of which neither believes it can hope for success without. Take, for example, the old-age pensioners. Undeniably there is in every State a considerable number of voters whose political interests are exclusively concentrated on this issue, and who, regardless of all other considerations, will vote the ticket which promises to be most liberal along these lines. In both parties there are now more than a few members of Senate and House (such as Senator Pepper, of Florida) who owe their seats to support of our so-called "senior citizens." In the coming campaign they will be very anxious to retain—or, at least, divide—that support.

NATURALLY, their weight in the convention will be used to have their party make as attractive a bid as possible. The fact that the Townsend Plan convention will be held in St. Louis almost immediately following the Democratic convention and that Dr. Townsend already has announced his followers will not, as in 1936, fool again with a third party but this time support the major party candidate who seems most sympathetic to their cause, is well calculated to stimulate the competitive bidding.

POLITICS being what it is and politicians what they are, it is impossible not to agree that this competitive bidding for the minority groups is a bad thing for the country. It promotes demagoguery in both parties and causes the general interests to be subordinated to the special interests. Competition, of course, is healthy and unavoidable, but the kind of competition which forces one party to take the lead in catering to uninformed mass sentiment and forces the other party to follow for fear of losing indispensable support is neither wholesome nor desirable. It diminishes political honesty and candor; promotes insincerity and humbuggery.

PERHAPS there are practical reasons why it could not be done (though none occurs at the moment), but a healthier form of competition could be had if both parties were compelled to adopt and promulgate their platforms simultaneously. At least this would deprive the organized minorities of their opportunity to force the party that leads off to bid high for fear of being outbidden and then to blackjack the other party into matching the bid. And it would lessen the tendency to yield to dangerous waves of public hysteria. It might even promote a form of nonpartisan co-operation in the public interest.

Sentences of the others, John Dimaria, Nello Mangoni and Julio Polacci, all of Erie, are scheduled to begin next Monday. John Murray of Pittsburgh, a CIO official, said he would attempt to get Judge Rowley of Mercer to shorten their sentences.

most equally unsatisfactory on such questions as Federal aid for the farmers, relief for the unemployed, labor relations and old-age pensions. Behind each of these proposals there is a strong, organized, militant, voluble and numerically formidable group of voters. Inevitably, the Republicans, with the opportunity to make the initial bid and the fear of being outbidden by the Democrats two weeks later, will go, as in the matter of war involvement, just as fa ras they dare in the effort to win support of all these groups. Careful not to put themselves in position to alienate business opposition to the New Deal, they nevertheless, if they can, will make it impossible for the Democrats to outpromise them without going off the deep end.

INEVITABLY this puts pressure on the Democrats, at least, to match the promises of the other party to these organized voting minorities, the support of which neither believes it can hope for success without. Take, for example, the old-age pensioners. Undeniably there is in every State a considerable number of voters whose political interests are exclusively concentrated on this issue, and who, regardless of all other considerations, will vote the ticket which promises to be most liberal along these lines. In both parties there are now more than a few members of Senate and House (such as Senator Pepper, of Florida) who owe their seats to support of our so-called "senior citizens." In the coming campaign they will be very anxious to retain—or, at least, divide—that support.

NATURALLY, their weight in the convention will be used to have their party make as attractive a bid as possible. The fact that the Townsend Plan convention will be held in St. Louis almost immediately following the Democratic convention and that Dr. Townsend already has announced his followers will not, as in 1936, fool again with a third party but this time support the major party candidate who seems most sympathetic to their cause, is well calculated to stimulate the competitive bidding.

POLITICS being what it is and politicians what they are, it is impossible not to agree that this competitive bidding for the minority groups is a bad thing for the country. It promotes demagoguery in both parties and causes the general interests to be subordinated to the special interests. Competition, of course, is healthy and unavoidable, but the kind of competition which forces one party to take the lead in catering to uninformed mass sentiment and forces the other party to follow for fear of losing indispensable support is neither wholesome nor desirable. It diminishes political honesty and candor; promotes insincerity and humbuggery.

PERHAPS there are practical reasons why it could not be done (though none occurs at the moment), but a healthier form of competition could be had if both parties were compelled to adopt and promulgate their platforms simultaneously. At least this would deprive the organized minorities of their opportunity to force the party that leads off to bid high for fear of being outbidden and then to blackjack the other party into matching the bid. And it would lessen the tendency to yield to dangerous waves of public hysteria. It might even promote a form of nonpartisan co-operation in the public interest.

BIGGEST SALE

The biggest sale of property in the history of the county took place in court room number one Wednesday morning when County Treasurer Earl R. Wimer sold several thousand pieces for delinquent taxes of 1931 and 1932. With some exceptions the entire group was sold to the county commissioners who will hold them for two years. During that period the properties may be redeemed. After two years the commissioners will sell the properties to the highest bidder.

Since the publication of the advertisements of the sale, thousands of dollars have come into the treasurer's office. In one day recently over $10,000 was paid in.

MORE COMMITTEE WINNERS

Continuing the publishing of the winners of county committeemen the following results were given out Wednesday by the Official Return Board:

Bessemer, Republicans, Paul A. Kanengeiser and Archie Shoup; Democrats, V. I. Mandich and Rudolph Spinic.

Ellport, Republicans, Charles Berg and F. E. Wehman; Democrats, Rex Galler and Steve Miskolczi.

Ellwood City, First ward, first precinct, Republicans, Fred D. Poister and Mrs. Catherine Crowe; Democrats, Joe Wilcofsky and Lee Meneice.

Second precinct, Tony Turner and Alice Barton; Democrats, John J. Nido and Alice Kiratsu.

SEWERS CLOGGED

One of the nicest job of sewer filling by trees is seen alongside the court house just now. The sewers carrying away the rain water from the roof have been clogged and were dug up. Roots as thick as lead pencils were in the eight-inch pipe and with the roots a collection of leaves and debris in some cases filling the pipe completely. The plumbers laying the new line are laying cast iron pipe which is caulked with oakum and lead and then let the trees try to chisel in.

WORKMEN BUSY

Up in the new jury room on the second floor of the court house the workmen are moving along. Two bed rooms have been made on the second floor of the rooms, while on the lower floor one room will be used for jury service and another for conference room for attorneys. A toilet room for attorneys is being installed.

A shower bath is to be installed in the upper rooms, probably to cool off some juryman who gets heated up about a case. When completed the new rooms will have added much needed space to the second floor of the court house.

BIGGEST SALE

The biggest sale of property in the history of the county took place in court room number one Wednesday morning when County Treasurer Earl R. Wimer sold several thousand pieces for delinquent taxes of 1931 and 1932. With some exceptions the entire group was sold to the county commissioners who will hold them for two years. During that period the properties may be redeemed. After two years the commissioners will sell the properties to the highest bidder.

Since the publication of the advertisements of the sale, thousands of dollars have come into the treasurer's office. In one day recently over $10,000 was paid in.

MORE COMMITTEE WINNERS

Continuing the publishing of the winners of county committeemen the following results were given out Wednesday by the Official Return Board:

Bessemer, Republicans, Paul A. Kanengeiser and Archie Shoup; Democrats, V. I. Mandich and Rudolph Spinic.

Ellport, Republicans, Charles Berg and F. E. Wehman; Democrats, Rex Galler and Steve Miskolczi.

Ellwood City, First ward, first precinct, Republicans, Fred D. Poister and Mrs. Catherine Crowe; Democrats, Joe Wilcofsky and Lee Meneice.

Second precinst, Republican, D. Statti and Joseph Spaniel; Democrats, Frank Volpe and Edward Leymarie.

Second ward, Republicans, L. C. Barnhart and D. A. Evans; Democrats, R. J. Salerno and Thomas H. Patterson.

Third ward, first precinct, Republicans, Ethel Callahan and J. A. Evans; Democrats, David Stinson and Laura Bell Wilson.

Second precinct, Tony Turner and Alice Barton; Democrats, John J. Nido and Alice Kiratsu.

SEWERS CLOGGED

One of the nicest job of sewer filling by trees is seen alongside the court house just now. The sewers carrying away the rain water from the roof have been clogged and were dug up. Roots as thick as lead pencils were in the eight-inch pipe and with the roots a collection of leaves and debris in some cases filling the pipe completely. The plumbers laying the new line are laying cast iron pipe which is caulked with oakum and lead and then let the trees try to chisel in.

WORKMEN BUSY

Up in the new jury room on the second floor of the court house the workmen are moving along. Two bed rooms have been made on the second floor of the rooms, while on the lower floor one room will be used for jury service and another for conference room for attorneys. A toilet room for attorneys is being installed.

A shower bath is to be installed in the upper rooms, probably to cool off some juryman who gets heated up about a case. When completed the new rooms will have added much needed space to the second floor of the court house.

Suspect Flees From Officer

Believe Man Wanted In Auto Depredations Seen In West Pittsburg Case

MAKES ESCAPE IN DARKNESS TO SWAMP

Darkness of the West Pittsburg swamp section last night afforded an opportunity to an alleged thief to escape the law. However, state police and Constable Walter Bannon of West Pittsburg, armed with his description, were searching for him today.

Constable Bannon was at work last night when he noticed a car near the Garland Manufacturing company's plant. He watched the car and saw a young man headed for the car and carrying a can.

The constable approached the man and found the can contained gasoline for the car which had run out of gas. Bannon requested the young man to produce his operator's license. The young man set down the can and darted toward the swamp.

Bannon chased the young man but the fugitive was protected by darkness.

The constable reported that 30 minutes later while he was searching for the young man he saw him come from the edge of the Beaver river. The young man apparently saw Bannon at the same time and escaped.

State Policemen McCullough and James were notified and they went to West Pittsburg.

They examined and found the car to be a new Chevrolet. The license plates had been stolen, it was reported from an auto owned by Floyd I. Patterson, Ellwood City.

Inside the car the officers found, they reported, several robes which were said to have been stolen from the auto of Carl G. Brown, which was parked in a garage in the rear of 350 East Washington street, Tuesday night.

Rosa Page Welch Concert Tonight

Singer Appearing At First Presbyterian Church For Benefit Of Elm Street "Y"

MRS. WELCH

Mrs. Rosa Page Welch, mezzo soprano from Chicago, who will appear in a benefit concert for the Elm street Y. W. C. A. at the First Presbyterian church this evening at 8:15, is especially interested in New Castle because a New Castle woman gave her music lessons at the Southern Christian Institute, a school for Negro youth in Mississippi, supported by the Christian church.

Adeline Hunt of New Castle was the matron of the school, who took a personal interest in many students and out of her own salary paid for the music lessons for Mrs. Welch and also her classmate, Rosa Brown, Elm street Y. W. C. A. secretary.

Mrs. Welch, returning from her work as an inter-racial conference leader in New Jersey on her way to her home in Chicago, is giving her services for the Elm street Y. W. C. A. benefit concert tonight.

New British Air Raid In Norway

German Held Bases In Denmark Also Bombed By Royal Air Force

(International News Service)

LONDON, May 2.—A new British air raid against German-held bases in Norway and Denmark was announced officially today.

The announcement stated Royal Air Force planes heavily bombed German air bases at Stavanger and Fornebu in Norway and at Aarlborg, Denmark, during the night.

In addition, it was stated, British planes also bombed Stavanger twice during the daylight hours of yesterday.

Earlier reports reached London of what may have been a battle between planes and ships off the east coast of England during the night.

Machine gun fire was heard off a coastal port, searchlights pierced the sky and flaming tracer bullets were seen.

The admiralty announced the British minesweeper Dunoon had been mined and sunk and that three officers and 24 ratings were missing and feared lost.

Forty survivors—seven of them injured—were rescued and brought ashore. They said the 27 missing men apparently were killed when a mine shattered the forepart of the Dunoon.

Suspect Flees From Officer

Believe Man Wanted In Auto Depredations Seen In West Pittsburg Case

MAKES ESCAPE IN DARKNESS TO SWAMP

Darkness of the West Pittsburg swamp section last night afforded an opportunity to an alleged thief to escape the law. However, state police and Constable Walter Bannon of West Pittsburg, armed with his description, were searching for him today.

Constable Bannon was at work last night when he noticed a car near the Garland Manufacturing company's plant. He watched the car and saw a young man headed for the car and carrying a can.

The constable approached the man and found the can contained gasoline for the car which had run out of gas. Bannon requested the young man to produce his operator's license. The young man set down the can and darted toward the swamp.

Bannon chased the young man but the fugitive was protected by darkness.

The constable reported that 30 minutes later while he was searching for the young man he saw him come from the edge of the Beaver river. The young man apparently saw Bannon at the same time and escaped.

State Policemen McCullough and James were notified and they went to West Pittsburg.

They examined and found the car to be a new Chevrolet. The license plates had been stolen, it was reported from an auto owned by Floyd I. Patterson, Ellwood City.

Inside the car the officers found, they reported, several robes which were said to have been stolen from the auto of Carl G. Brown, which was parked in a garage in the rear of 350 East Washington street, Tuesday night.

Rosa Page Welch Concert Tonight

Singer Appearing At First Presbyterian Church For Benefit Of Elm Street "Y"

MRS. WELCH

Mrs. Rosa Page Welch, mezzo soprano from Chicago, who will appear in a benefit concert for the Elm street Y. W. C. A. at the First Presbyterian church this evening at 8:15, is especially interested in New Castle because a New Castle woman gave her music lessons at the Southern Christian Institute, a school for Negro youth in Mississippi, supported by the Christian church.

Adeline Hunt of New Castle was the matron of the school, who took a personal interest in many students and out of her own salary paid for the music lessons for Mrs. Welch and also her classmate, Rosa Brown, Elm street Y. W. C. A. secretary.

Mrs. Welch, returning from her work as an inter-racial conference leader in New Jersey on her way to her home in Chicago, is giving her services for the Elm street Y. W. C. A. benefit concert tonight.

Reports indicating progress were given by members of the committee appointed to investigate the proposed change from street cars to buses on the Mahoningtown line.

John E. Porter and Rev. D. J. Blasdell, members of the old paper committee, reported on the recent paper gathering day. The club voted their thanks and appreciation to all those who cooperated in the campaign.

As the club plans to again gather old-paper and magazines in about a month, persons desiring to co-operate should begin now to save old paper. Members of the club plan to gather at Horchler's warehouse, to bale the paper collected.

The club voted to cooperate and take part in the coming celebration of B. and D. Day. Club will meet in two weeks, at the church.

The program is scheduled to begin at 8 o'clock and will consist of community singing, plays and contests. The program is being arranged by members of the Davis' Bible class and John Brettell's class.

Feautre of the program will be an 8-act comedy skit, employing a cast of 35, taken from both of the sponsoring classes. A luncheon will be served at the close of the program.

Committee in charge includes: John Phillips, Eleanor Blasdell, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hamilton, William Howard, Donald Blasdell and Bill Johnston.

Repairs are being made to the windows in the Mahoningtown Presbyterian church auditorium. The windows are being re-set and made water-tight.

Another day for collecting old papers and magazines is being planned by the Seventh Ward Civic club. Anyone who would like to help the club in their paper campaign should begin saving paper now.

Plans are being formulated for an amateur show in the near future at the Christopher Columbus society hall, South Liberty street.

On rainy days, drivers seem to take little or no caution when passing pedestrians, but splash through the water, sending a spray of dirt over the sidewalk.

Repairs have been made to the Mahoning avenue railroad crossing. The crossing is once more in first class shape.

Committees Of Legion Working Hard On Banquet

Expect Event Next Week Will Be One Of Most Outstanding In History

NATIONAL HEAD CHIEF SPEAKER

Various committees in charge of the arrangements for the National Commander's banquet, when the American Legion posts of the 26th district will honor Raymond J. Kelly, head of the great World War organization, have been working hard for the success of the affair, and present indications point to a record attendance and an outstanding affair, General Chairman C. C. Sweesy stated today.

One of the most important committees has been the visitation committee, which has been busy during the past month, visiting the various American Legion posts in Western Pennsylvania and Easter Ohio, and issuing them an invitation to attend this outstanding Legion event.

Senior Vice Commander Walter G. Dietterle has been chairman of this committee, aided by Commander A. Louis Conn, Past Commanders R. Harold Blewitt, R. Loy Boyd, James E. Moorhead, Clare B. Book, Jesse Boak, W. Russell Allen, Ross R. Frederick, Caleb Green, Howard Geary, Lee R. Hanna, Carl Cheers, H. F. Davidson, C. B. Sproull, and Karl Rohrer.

Dr. Hyamn Frank is chairman of another important committee, the program, and in this is aided by: Leslie Brindle, William Allgiers, Howard Allen, Attorney Orville Brown, William Cosel, Gilbert Colnot, Edward Davies, Earl Emerick, Eugene Hart, Louis Gunton, T. W. McCullough, R. C. Lutz, Paul Rowland, Harold Sampson, Wayne Stitzinger, John Welther, and Harold Wharton. The program committee has arranged a program which will be as short as possible, so that those who are interested in dancing will have an opportunity of engaging in this pleasant pastime.

Harry G. Harris is chairman of the fraternal courtesy committee, which also includes Wilbert G. Chapman, James C. Brice, Harvey Bintrin, Dr. W. Fulton Jackson, Robert Hanna, Paul Forcey, Gaird Groves, Roy Samuels, Ernest Smith, Edward D. Pritchard, Norman P. Nelson, Harry McFeaters, Clare Roberts, Ross D. Rosenberger, Ed. Ryan, Stephen McBride, James E. Thomas, Frank Conner, Robert Gowell, Jack Gerson, Robert Hamilton, and Ralph B. Hayes.

Tickets for the event are in the hands of most of the members of the post, or if persons desiring to attend have not been contacted, that can be reserved with Ticket Chairman, Clarence S. Jarrett, L. S. and T. Building.

DAILY DOZEN

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Not all suicides are crazy.

The urge to live is strong in the human heart.

Man only succumbs under stress of overpowering circumstances.

Suicides are caused usually by melancholia and physical pain.

Financial failure, disgrace and illness are other causes.

As are jealousy, loneliness, fear and love.

Fifty per cent of suicides occur in the oldest fifth of our population.

Three times as many men kill themselves as women.

During adolescence the female rate may be slightly higher.

More unmarried men commit suicide than married ones.

A man suffers intensely before committing suicide.

Understanding and sympathy are needed by such sufferers.

Now, a cool HANES Undershirt takes the wet out of sweat. Its soft, absorbent knit rests on my chest as lightly as a breeze but blots up the perspiration. Evaporation is even and rapid. I feel as cool as a sail on a boat. And my top-shirt stays a whole lot neater.

(From the Medical Society of the State of Pennsylvania)

Not all suicides are crazy.

The urge to live is strong in the human heart.

Man only succumbs under stress of overpowering circumstances.

Suicides are caused usually by melancholia and physical pain.

Financial failure, disgrace and illness are other causes.

As are jealousy, loneliness, fear and love.

Fifty per cent of suicides occur in the oldest fifth of our population.

Three times as many men kill themselves as women.

During adolescence the female rate may be slightly higher.

More unmarried men commit suicide than married ones.

A man suffers intensely before committing suicide.

Understanding and sympathy are needed by such sufferers.

Third Transfusion Is Administered To Stricken Athlete

Dickinson Track Star Has Already Lost One Leg, Is In Critical Shape

(International News Service)

CARLISLE, Pa., May 2—A third blood transfusion was administered today to Thomas Hunt, 21, Dickinson college sophomore, in an effort to check an infection from his right leg, broken during a track meet Friday.

Hunt, handsome athletic son of a Bethlehem Steel Co. executive, remained in critical condition in Carlisle hospital, unaware that the injured member had been amputated yesterday.

Latest blood donor was a fraternity brother of the stricken undergraduate, Paul E. Gorsuch, of Newton Square.

Fellow students flocked to the hospital to have their blood typed preparatory to additional transfusions, but physicians chose only six to hold themselves in readiness.

The first donors were Dean Hoffman, Jr., a fraternity brother in Phia Delta Theta of the stricken youth's and son of a Harrisburg newspaperman; and John O. Cockey, Glyndon, Md., a member of another fraternity.

Hunt's leg was broken in two places Friday in the midst of an inter-fraternity track meet at Dickinson when he struck a cross bar during high jump competition and fell heavily to the ground. He was the college's No. 1 golfer and ace swimmer.

Physicians described the dangerous infection as similar to that which necessitated amputation of a leg last fall of Don Herring, Princeton football player.

Slayer Of Girl Weeps In Court

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., May 2.—For the first time in his trial, 21-year-old Peter Schewchuk, Chester, Pa., roustabout, wept today as his counsel pleaded with an all-male jury to spare him from the electric chair for strangling Wanda Dworecki, 18, last August.

In the final defense plea, Attorney Thomas Madden described the youth as the "innocent victim of a conniving father—Rev. Walter Dworecki". The minister died in the electric chair last March 24 for hiring Schewchuk to murder his daughter, so he could collect her insurance.

The prosecutor contends the slaying was a 'wilful, premeditated murder", but Madden argued his client lacked the mentality to pay the extreme penalty and "should receive mercy and imprisonment for life".

Judge Clifford A. Baldwin was expected to give the case to the jury this afternoon after a final address by Prosecutor Samuel P. Orlando. Schewchuk has demonstrated in court how he choked Wanda to death with his hands and then bashed her head with a rock.

Urges Restrictions Be Removed From W.P.A. Work Plan

Seek Free Rein To Spend $985,000,000 In Coming Eight Months After July 1

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The administration moved today to persuade congress to abandon severe restrictions placed upon the work projects administration in this year's relief bill and grant wide discretion in expenditure of $985,000,000 in the eight months following July 1.

Col. Francis P. Harrington, WPA commissioner, proposed to the house relief subcommittee that it abandon most of the restrictions voted last year after a WPA investigation.

He approved, with modification, however, one of the most controversial restrictions. This is the provision for a 30-day layoff of WPA workers after they have been on the rolls for 18 months. He suggested that the layoff be cut to 15 days.

Harrington, according to committee members, urged:

1. Abandonment of the provision requiring local communities to sponsor WPA projects and provide 25 per cent of the cost.

2. Abandonment of a provision prohibiting WPA from spending more than $52,000 on single construction projects.

3. Permission for WPA to restore theater projects.

Committee members revealed that Brehon Somervel, New York WPA administrator, urged lifting of the ban on theater projects, but opposed a writers' project. He said, members reported, that the writers' project is not a justifiable WPA activity.

Ask Strengthening Of National Defense

Drastic Revision Of Many New Deal Economic Policies Also Demanded

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A plea for immediate strengthening of national defense, coupled with demands for drastic revision of many New Deal economic policies, was presented to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention today by the Chamber's resolution committee.

Financial preparedness for any emergency is just as necessary as military preparedness, the committee reported to the 1,500 convention delegates. American defenses at present are inadequate, the report said.

In its resolution on national defense, one of 26 presented to the convention, the committee urged that further armament of the army, navy and air forces be expedited. It asked the nation's business men to grant vacation leave with pay to employes who are members of the National Guard and desire to engage in military maneuvers.

The committee urged the delegates to go on record as favoring a "pay as we go" basis in meeting national defense expenditures.

"Unbalanced budgets and further increases in the public debt can not continue if we are to retain the financial strength necessary for any prolonged defense," the committee resolution said.

A companion resolution called for counteracting subversive propaganda activities by enacting legislation making it a criminal offense to advocate violent overthrow of government, or to advocate physical injury to federal officials.

AROUND CITY HALL

During council meeting in the city building this morning council approved Finance Director James L. Fink's action in issuing a warrant for $250 to the armory board. Annually this sum is appropriated. The county of Lawrence gives the board $750 annually, it was said.

A section of the terrace in East street along the Mrs. Emma Brown Renfrew property is held back by planks. However, the situation is a hazard to pedestrians, City Engineer Glenn R. Throop told council today. The property owner will be instructed to protect the public, according to a motion presented by D. O. Davies.

The dog-catcher was busy during April, according to a report he has delivered to city council. He killed 52 dogs last month, he stated.

J. Leon Fink, finance director, has approved contracts for the purchase of a Chrysler business coupe for the fire chief and a Plymouth used coupe for the sewer bureau.

J. C. Gilfillan has offered to sell the city a right of way through his property connecting North Mercer and North Jefferson streets for $750, according to Street Director William H. Dunlap's report to council in session in city hall today.

Mayor Charles B. Mayne's report of police activities for April shows automobiles and liquor caused most arrests. One hundred and twenty-two were given tags for parking overtime, speeding and violating traffic rules. Fifty-two persons were arrested for drunkenness and becoming disorderly while in that state, the report showed.

Beginning Monday city hall employes will report for work one hour earlier and leave their offices one hour earlier than at present. Council will meet at 10 a. m. E. S. T. as usual.

Two hundred and nine arrests were made in April, according to Mayor Charles B. Mayne's report to council today. Police court receipts amounted to $536.04, he stated. Fines and forfeits represented $441.

Barber shop ordinance which prescribes when and when not a shop may be kept open during week days will not be enforced in the future because of a reported supreme court decision which it is asserted declared similar ordinances in Pennsylvania to be unconstitutional.

City of New Castle has paid county taxes amounting to $236.02 covering 1932 for Cunningham park, it was stated today by Finance Director James L. Fink.

The first donors were Dean Hoffman, Jr., a fraternity brother in Phia Delta Theta of the stricken youth's and son of a Harrisburg newspaperman; and John O. Cockey, Glyndon, Md., a member of another fraternity.

Hunt's leg was broken in two places Friday in the midst of an inter-fraternity track meet at Dickinson when he struck a cross bar during high jump competition and fell heavily to the ground. He was the college's No. 1 golfer and ace swimmer.

Physicians described the dangerous infection as similar to that which necessitated amputation of a leg last fall of Don Herring, Princeton football player.

Slayer Of Girl Weeps In Court

(International News Service)

CAMDEN, N. J., May 2.—For the first time in his trial, 21-year-old Peter Schewchuk, Chester, Pa., roustabout, wept today as his counsel pleaded with an all-male jury to spare him from the electric chair for strangling Wanda Dworecki, 18, last August.

In the final defense plea, Attorney Thomas Madden described the youth as the "innocent victim of a conniving father—Rev. Walter Dworecki". The minister died in the electric chair last March 24 for hiring Schewchuk to murder his daughter, so he could collect her insurance.

The prosecutor contends the slaying was a 'wilful, premeditated murder", but Madden argued his client lacked the mentality to pay the extreme penalty and "should receive mercy and imprisonment for life".

Judge Clifford A. Baldwin was expected to give the case to the jury this afternoon after a final address by Prosecutor Samuel P. Orlando. Schewchuk has demonstrated in court how he choked Wanda to death with his hands and then bashed her head with a rock.

Urges Restrictions Be Removed From W.P.A. Work Plan

Seek Free Rein To Spend $985,000,000 In Coming Eight Months After July 1

By WILLIAM S. NEAL
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The administration moved today to persuade congress to abandon severe restrictions placed upon the work projects administration in this year's relief bill and grant wide discretion in expenditure of $985,000,000 in the eight months following July 1.

Col. Francis P. Harrington, WPA commissioner, proposed to the house relief subcommittee that it abandon most of the restrictions voted last year after a WPA investigation.

He approved, with modification, however, one of the most controversial restrictions. This is the provision for a 30-day layoff of WPA workers after they have been on the rolls for 18 months. He suggested that the layoff be cut to 15 days.

Harrington, according to committee members, urged:

1. Abandonment of the provision requiring local communities to sponsor WPA projects and provide 25 per cent of the cost.

2. Abandonment of a provision prohibiting WPA from spending more than $52,000 on single construction projects.

3. Permission for WPA to restore theater projects.

Committee members revealed that Brehon Somervel, New York WPA administrator, urged lifting of the ban on theater projects, but opposed a writers' project He said, members reported, that the writers' project is not a justifiable WPA activity.

Ask Strengthening Of National Defense

Drastic Revision Of Many New Deal Economic Policies Also Demanded

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 2.—A plea for immediate strengthening of national defense, coupled with demands for drastic revision of many New Deal economic policies, was presented to the U. S. Chamber of Commerce convention today by the Chamber's resolution committee.

Financial preparedness for any emergency is just as necessary as military preparedness, the committee reported to the 1,500 convention delegates. American defenses at present are inadequate, the report said.

In its resolution on national defense, one of 26 presented to the convention, the committee urged that further armament of the army, navy and air forces be expedited. It asked the nation's business men to grant vacation leave with pay to employes who are members of the National Guard and desire to engage in military maneuvers.

The committee urged the delegates to go on record as favoring a "pay as we go" basis in meeting national defense expenditures.

"Unbalanced budgets and further increases in the public debt can not continue if we are to retain the financial strength necessary for any prolonged defense," the committee resolution said.

A companion resolution called for counteracting subversive propaganda activities by enacting legislation making it a criminal offense to advocate violent overthrow of government, or to advocate physical injury to federal officials.

AROUND CITY HALL

During council meeting in the city building this morning council approved Finance Director James L. Fink's action in issuing a warrant for $250 to the armory board. Annually this sum is appropriated. The county of Lawrence gives the board $750 annually, it was said.

A section of the terrace in East street along the Mrs. Emma Brown Renfrew property is held back by planks. However, the situation is a hazard to pedestrians, City Engineer Glenn R. Throop told council today. The property owner will be instructed to protect the public, according to a motion presented by D. O. Davies.

The dog-catcher was busy during April, according to a report he has delivered to city council. He killed 52 dogs last month, he stated.

J. Leon Fink, finance director, has approved contracts for the purchase of a Chrysler business coupe for the fire chief and a Plymouth used coupe for the sewer bureau.

J. C. Gilfillan has offered to sell the city a right of way through his property connecting North Mercer and North Jefferson streets for $750, according to Street Director William H. Dunlap's report to council in session in city hall today.

Mayor Charles B. Mayne's report of police activities for April shows automobiles and liquor caused most arrests. One hundred and twenty-two were given tags for parking overtime, speeding and violating traffic rules. Fifty-two persons were arrested for drunkenness and becoming disorderly while in that state, the report showed.

Beginning Monday city hall employes will report for work one hour earlier and leave their offices one hour earlier than at present. Council will meet at 10 a. m. E. S. T. as usual.

Two hundred and nine arrests were made in April, according to Mayor Charles B. Mayne's report to council today. Police court receipts amounted to $536.64, he stated. Fines and forfeits represented $441.

Barber shop ordinance which prescribes when and when not a shop may be kept open during week days will not be enforced in the future because of a reported supreme court decision which it is asserted declared similar ordinances in Pennsylvania to be unconstitutional.

City of New Castle has paid county taxes amounting to $236.02 covering 1932 for Cunningham park, it was stated today by Finance Director James L. Fink.

SORE THROAT

Sore throats are always troublesome, sometimes very dangerous conditions, and they are most prevalent in the spring and in the fall when so many children suffer from attacks of the common cold.

When a child gets a bad cold, then some of the throat structures become swollen and inflamed by the infection; sometimes all the throat structures become involved, and in some cases chronic inflammation sets in. This inflammation of the throat, however, may be only secondary to a nose infection and when this is the case, we can't expect the throat to clear up until the source of the infection has been cleared up.

Influenza, such as was rife this winter and is common even now, often spreads to the windpipe and the lungs. When the inflammation is confined to the tonsils, we know it as tonsilitis. In a few of these cases little white "balls" form in the small cavities of the tonsils. As they are dislodged, they are either swallowed or expectorated. They are caused partly by particles of food clinging there and partly by discharge fibrine—a secretion given off by the tonsils at all times and in increased quantities when those organs become inflamed.

Sometimes the inflammation is confined to the pharynx, which is the cavity into which the mouth and nose lead just above the windpipe and the food gullet. This type of inflammation is known as pharyngitis. I have known highly strung, nervous people come to me complaining that they had a "relaxed" feeling at the back of the throat. Usually, they are suffering from pharyngitis.

When the larynx, or windpipe is inflamed, we call it laryngitis. In bad cases, the vocal cords are involved and may even become temporarily paralysed. That is generally what is wrong when a person "loses" his voice. Excessive shouting such as you indulge in when you see a fast hockey or football game may affect the larynx and cause laryngitis. I imagine it must be a fairly common ailment with European dictators.

This inflammation may work its way down the windpipe to the bronchial tubes and the lungs, causing bronchitis and pneumonia. In reverse, lung infection may work itself up through the windpipe to the larynx and the throat, inflaming the throat structures as it passes along.

If laryngitis comes with the general congestion of a cold, it ordinarily subsides fairly quickly. If it results from an infection in the lungs, it may hang on until the primary source of the infection is cured.

Of course, we are all fairly familiar with the troubles the tonsils may cause children. We have discussed these recently. A chronic tonsilitis often gives rise to an abcess in the throat and this we know as quinsy.

Quinsy is particularly painful and if left to run its course may keep the victim miserable as long as ten days. However, if you go to your doctor and let him make a small surgical incision in the abcess, it should clear up in about three days.

'Clean Politics' Bill Is Killed By House Committee

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 2. — The House Judiciary Committee, on Wednesday, killed the Senate-approved Hatch "clean politics" bill which would have extended the ban on political activity by Federal employes to include state and local employes paid partly from Federal funds.

The vote was 14 to 10.

The Democratic majority of the committee, members said, rejected the bill on the ground that it would interfere with state rights.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Hatch (D.), New Mexico, was passed by the Senate after a bitter fight during which leading New Deal senators attempted to defeat the measure.

The measure was a sequel to the original Hatch Act, enacted into law at the last session of Congress. The original act bans political activity by Federal employes with the exception of policy making officials.

In order to extend the ban, Senator Hatch proposed in the new bill to forbid political activity by 2,800,000 employes of state, county and cities who are paid partly by Federal funds.

Norwegian-Swedish Credits Are Frozen

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 2. — The House, on Wednesday, passed unanimously and sent to the White House a resolution "freezing" Norwegian and Danish credits in the United States to prevent possible confiscation by Germany.

The measure which confirms the power of the president to control international exchange in time of emergency, specifically ratifies the presidential order of April 10 "freezing" Norwegian and Danish credits.

Threatened Republican opposition to the measure was averted when assurances were given by treasury department officials that the resolution does not give added powers to the president.

Sore throats are always troublesome, sometimes very dangerous conditions, and they are most prevalent in the spring and in the fall when so many children suffer from attacks of the common cold.

When a child gets a bad cold, then some of the throat structures become swollen and inflamed by the infection; sometimes all the throat structures become involved, and in some cases chronic inflammation sets in. This inflammation of the throat, however, may be only secondary to a nose infection and when this is the case, we can't expect the throat to clear up until the source of the infection has been cleared up.

Influenza, such as was rife this winter and is common even now, often spreads to the windpipe and the lungs. When the inflammation is confined to the tonsils, we know it as tonsilitis. In a few of these cases little white "balls" form in the small cavities of the tonsils. As they are dislodged, they are either swallowed or expectorated.. They are caused partly by particles of food clinging there and partly by discharge fibrine—a secretion given off by the tonsils at all times and in increased quantities when those organs become inflamed.

Sometimes the inflammation is confined to the pharynx, which is the cavity into which the mouth and nose lead just above the windpipe and the food gullet. This type of inflammation is known as pharyngitis. I have known highly strung, nervous people come to me complaining that they had a "relaxed" feeling at the back of the throat. Usually, they are suffering from pharyngitis.

When the larynx, or windpipe is inflamed, we call it laryngitis. In bad cases, the vocal cords are involved and may even become temporarily paralysed. That is generally what is wrong when a person "loses" his voice. Excessive shouting such as you indulge in when you see a fast hockey or football game may affect the larynx and cause laryngitis. I imagine it must be a fairly common ailment with European dictators.

This inflammation may work its way down the windpipe to the bronchial tubes and the lungs, causing bronchitis and pneumonia. In reverse, lung infection may work itself up through the windpipe to the larynx and the throat, inflaming the throat structures as it passes along.

If laryngitis comes with the general congestion of a cold, it ordinarily subsides fairly quickly. If it results from an infection in the lungs, it may hang on until the primary source of the infection is cured.

Of course, we are all fairly familiar with the troubles the tonsils may cause children. We have discussed these recently. A chronic tonsilitis often gives rise to an abcess in the throat and this we know as quinsy.

Quinsy is particularly painful and if left to run its course may keep the victim miserable as long as ten days. However, if you go to your doctor and let him make a small surgical incision in the abcess, it should clear up in about three days.

'Clean Politics' Bill Is Killed By House Committee

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 2. — The House Judiciary Committee, on Wednesday, killed the Senate-approved Hatch "clean politics" bill which would have extended the ban on political activity by Federal employes to include state and local employes paid partly from Federal funds.

The vote was 14 to 10.

The Democratic majority of the committee, members said, rejected the bill on the ground that it would interfere with state rights.

The bill, sponsored by Senator Hatch (D.), New Mexico, was passed by the Senate after a bitter fight during which leading New Deal senators attempted to defeat the measure.

The measure was a sequel to the original Hatch Act, enacted into law at the last session of Congress. The original act bans political activity by Federal employes with the exception of policy making officials.

In order to extend the ban, Senator Hatch proposed in the new bill to forbid political activity by 2,800,000 employes of state, county and cities who are paid partly by Federal funds.

Norwegian-Swedish Credits Are Frozen

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 2. — The House, on Wednesday, passed unanimously and sent to the White House a resolution "freezing" Norwegian and Danish credits in the United States to prevent possible confiscation by Germany.

The measure which confirms the power of the president to control international exchange in time of emergency, specifically ratifies the presidential order of April 10 "freezing" Norwegian and Danish credits.

Threatened Republican opposition to the measure was averted when assurances were given by treasury department officials that the resolution does not give added powers to the president.

Blind Man Spreads Fire Alarm, Saves Pittsburgh Building

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—A blind news-stand operator discovered a fire in the old post office building in downtown Pittsburgh today and his prompt calls for help aided firemen in confining the blaze to waste paper in the basement of the building.

Ralph Stone, the news boy, said he smelled smoke as he opened his stand and began shouting "fire". Approximately 30 street cars and dozens of motorists enroute to work were delayed for 30 minutes by the fire, in the heart of Pittsburgh's business district.

Smoke forced about a score of early employes to flee from the building, but no one was injured.

President's Son Gives His Idea

Inclined To Believe Father Will Not Run For Third Term

STATEMENT MAY COME IN JULY

(International News Service)

FORT WORTH, Texas, May 2.—President Roosevelt will make no announcement regarding a third term until just before—or possibly during—the National Democratic convention in July, in the opinion today of his son, Elliott Roosevelt.

Young Roosevelt discussed the third term question in the first of a new series of tri-weekly Texas radio broadcasts last night, but disclaimed having any "inside information" as to his father's intentions, saying:

"I have no private pipe line to Washington and know no more about whether the president will run for a third term than you do."

He said, however, that he believed the president would not run again unless there is a definite popular demand for his re-election. Elliott said if his father did not seek a third term for himself, he would nonetheless campaign vigorously for the Democratic nominee if that nominee is a humanitarian at heart with the training to deal with the complex problems caused by the international situation.

California Poll Shows Third Term Opposition

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 2—A California poll of registered voters today showed President Roosevelt is still the popular choice of Democrats for a third term, but that he would lose more than ten percent of his 1936 following if opposed by Thomas E. Dewey as the G. O. P. nominee.

The poll was taken by a prominent Democratic official among voters in San Francisco, Oakland and Sacramento—Cities which the president swept in 1932 and 1936. The areas generally were Republican prior to the Roosevelt landslide of 1932 but have been staunchly Democratic since then.

In San Francisco, the Democratic revolt against a third term was pronounced. The poll showed 30 per cent of interviewed Democrats would vote for Dewey over the president. In the Oakland area, the poll indicated the president would lose 13 per cent of his 1936 following, while in Sacramento, his third term loss would be from 9 to 12 percent.

The poll was taken in friendly Roosevelt territory to determine the amount of popular opposition to a third term. If it reflects national sentiment on the issue, the president apparently would face serious difficulty in winning the 1940 contest.

HAPPY RELIEF FROM PAINFUL BACKACHE

Many of those gnawing, nagging, painful backaches people blame on colds or strains are often caused by tired kidneys—and may be relieved when treated in the right way.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

Willkie Ready To Co-operate

Answer Is Filed By Commonwealth And Southern Company To S. E. C.

PENNSYLVANIA POWER COMPANY ALSO JOINS

An offer to cooperate to the fullest extent was the substance of the comment yesterday of Wendell L. Willkie, president of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation, on the answer filed by his company to the Securities and Exchange Commission at Washington. The Commission on March 6 had cited the Corporation, and its subsidiaries to show cause why it should not comply with the integration provisions of the Public Utility Holding Company Act.

The answer to the Commission's order was signed by Mr. Willkie. He declared that any order of the Commission which would require the Corporation to divest itself of ownership of securities, or which would deprive subsidiary companies of the benefits now being rendered by the Commonwealth and Southern Service Company, would be contrary to the intent and provisions of the Utility Act, and in violation of the Constitution.

Preserved Legal Rights

While the Corporation's answer preserved all its legal rights, it was not, according to Mr. Willkie, to be construed as an indication that it intended to fight the constitutionality of the Act to the highest court in the land.

"If it is at all possible," Mr. Willkie said in his statement, "I am willing to make a sincere effort to work out the entire integration problem of our system at a round table conference with members of the Securities and Exchange Commission."

"Commonwealth and Southern residential rates are" Mr. Willkie added, "Twenty-seven per cent lower than the National average, and the use of service is thirty-seven per cent higher. This is a clear-cut indication that it is serving the public interest."

Would Prove Detrimental

One of the Companies to join with Commonwealth and Southern Corporation in its answer to the Securities and Exchange Commission was the Pennsylvania Power company. In its answer the local company enumerated the many services rendered by Commonwealth and Southern to the Company, stating that "a sale and a severance of its relations with Commonwealth and Southern, and its Service Company, would be detrimental to the Company, its investors, consumers, and the public interest."

As an evidence of the benefits accruing to the Pennsylvania Power Company from the Commonwealth Service Company, the answer points out that in spite of the fact that the local company is relatively small and serves a territory which is only 5 per cent urban with the largest city smaller than 50,000 population, the residential and rural customers of the Company paid an average rate of materially lower than Pennsylvania as a whole, and the average use of service per customer exceeded the average per customer in Pennsylvania.

Demand Program To Keep This Nation Out Of Foreign War

By ERIC FRIEDHEIM
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, May 2.—The United States Chamber of Commerce today called for immediate military and financial preparedness to keep the nation out of war.

Without a dissenting voice, the 1500 delegates to the Chambers' annual convention adopted a series of resolutions advocating strong army, navy and air force and demanding an overhaul of New Deal economic policies to insure financial strength for any war emergency.

The resolutions were the product of the Chambers' resolutions committee, as were others on a wide range of subjects, all of which were adopted.

BERATES PARENTS WHO USE DENTISTS AS "BOGEY MEN"

(International News Service)

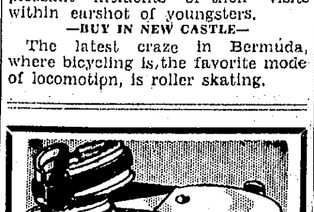

PHILADELPHIA—Lack of an intelligent system of child training is shown by parents who use dentists or bogey men to intimidate their offspring into behaving, in the opinion of Dr. H. H. Burkhart, of Atlanta, Ga.

Addressing the Philadelphia county Dental society he charged that it was an injustice to threaten the child with being hurt by a dentist.

These threats retard dental care in the early stages, when it is most important, he declared, urging that parents refrain from discussing unpleasant incidents of their visits within earshot of youngsters.

Rev. And Mrs. Stump Complete 15 Years Of Service At St. Paul's Church

The Rev. and Mrs. A. M. Stump celebrated their 15th anniversary in the pastorate of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran church with "open house" for the congregation Wednesday from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 9 p. m. The house was beautifully decorated with spring flowers. Gifts from the different members of the congregation were displayed.

In the afternoon, as the guests entered the home, they were greeted by Miss Anna Dietterle who looked after their registration and then ushered them into the living room and presented them to Rev. and Mrs. Stump, who, with Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Eve, Sr., and Mr. and Mrs. Joshua Morgan, welcomed them.

A committee consisting of Mrs. William Gregor, Mrs. Andrew Krestel and W. J. Knobloch conducted them through the parsonage and on their return they were ushered into the dining room by Mrs. Sara Nicum and Mrs. Jennie Urban, who acted as aides for the serving of refreshments. The table was beautiful with its pink and yellow floral centerpiece and cathedral candles. Those pouring were Miss Katherine Treser and Mrs. A. C. Dietterle.

Mrs. Simon Hartman was honorary hostess for the occasion. The pastor and his wife were presented with a beautiful upholstered chair from the congregation besides many vases of flowers, telegrams, greetings and some personal gifts. The Ladies' Aid presented 15 American Beauty roses.

During the evening hours, those assisting were Mrs. Charles Brickner, welcoming the guests at the door and caring for registration, and those receiving with the pastor and Mrs. Stump, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Chamberlain and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Haug, Jr. The committee to conduct guests through the parsonage were Mrs. Rose Newman and L. W. Daugherty, with Miss Katherine Lienert, Miss Mary Kuttesch and Miss Sara Schuster as serving aides. Those pouring were Miss Sara Markel and Miss Lillian Hartman.

The pastor and Mrs. Stump were made to feel that the efforts of the past 15 years were worthwhile, for both pastor and people have been blessed in the service of the Lord.

Many Volunteers To Aid Poppy Day Sale On Saturday

ELLWOOD CITY, May 2.—Enthusiastic response to the American Legion Auxiliary's appeal for Poppy Day workers is reported by Mrs. S R. Berstler, poppy chairman of the J. Wilbur Randolph Auxiliary unit. Enrollment of women to distribute memorial poppies throughout the city on Poppy Day, May 4, is practically complete and assures complete coverage of the city.

All of the Auxiliary's Poppy Day workers will serve as unpaid volunteers, giving their time to bring the memorial flowers to the city and to permit every penny of the contributions made for the poppies to go to the welfare of needy victims of the war. The funds raised will help support the work of the Legion and Auxiliary for disabled veterans, their families and the families of deceased veterans during the coming year.

All members of the Auxiliary able to serve have volunteered to distribute the memorial poppies. In addition, members of other women's and girls' organizations will aid. Junior Auxiliary members will take an active part in the work.

Successful observance of Poppy Day, when we honor the World war dead by wearing their memorial flower and aid the disabled veterans, the widows and fatherless children of veterans, depends entirely upon the volunteer workers. Disabled veterans work all winter and spring making the poppies, which must all be distributed in one day. We hope that the public will appreciate the efforts of these workers and will give generous co-operation.

Consular Post In Greenland Is To Be Set Up

United States Will Send State Department Officer To Far-Away Greenland

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, May 2.—Establishment of consular relations between the United States and Greenland, a colony of German dominated Denmark, was announced today by the state department.

Secretary of State Hull designated James K. Penfield, a state department officer, to open up a consulate at Gothaab, Greenland. He will be assisted by George L. West, Jr., a foreign service officer, as vice-consul. Penfield expects to sail for Greenland on the coast guard cutter Comanche, May 10.

"Since communication between Copenhagen and Greenland has been interrupted," the state department said in a statement, "consular representation has been deemed advisable by the United States and the Greenland authorities."

No definite plans for the opening of a consulate in the United States by Greenland have yet been communicated to the state department, although it is expected that one will be set up in this country.

Recently the United States and Iceland, another of Denmark's colonies, announced plans to exchange consuls. Before the German occupation of Denmark, all business between the United States and these two northern islands was conducted via Copenhagen. German domination of the Danish government now makes that impossible, officials say.

Pope Pius Raises Voice Against War

(International News Service)

VATICAN CITY, May 2.—Pope Pius XII again raised his voice against the war today, condemning it as the "result of some men's unchecked passion and desire for earthly power and greatness."

"Unrestrained greed," the pontiff added, "is leading to repudiation of the laws of God, truth and justice and the norms of charity."

The holy father's denendiation of war, one of the most outspoken he has made, was uttered during a homily in Latin at a ceremony canonizing Eufrasia Pelletier Gemma Galgani before 40,000 persons in St. Peter's.

The pontiff invoked the intercession of the new saints to God to effect a "return of the councils of peace to the warring nations and a reunion and concord to peoples divided by rivalry and agitated by hate".

He termed the past eight months of war a "terrifying spectacle", adding:

"Already it is destroying immense wealth, forcing not a few into exile and robbing innocent children of their parents."

Governor May Ask $70,000,000

Large Deficit Appropriation To Be Sought From Special Session

BIG TRANSFER FROM MOTOR FUND

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 2—Gov. Arthur H. James may ask the special session of the legislature, which convenes May 6, for a deficit appropriation of more than $70,000,000 to finance relief for the remainder of the year.

"I'm going to ask for as large an appropriations as possible," he stated. Full details of the governor's financial program will be given in his address Monday night before a joint session of both houses of the general assembly. The speech will be broadcast.

Approximately $31,000,000 for relief will be transferred from the motor vehicle fund. Secretary of highways I. Lamont Hughes has informed the governor that that amount can be safely used without impairing the state's highway program.

Now Governor James says "There may be considerably more" than the $31,000,000 available for relief from the motor fund. The governor assured a delegation from the Pennsylvia motor federation headed by Judge Howard W. Hughes of Washington county that the money transferred from the motor fund would be repaid by May 31, 1941.

As the date for the convening of the special session drew nearer, additional angles of the governor's financial plans became known, although the governor refused to divulge the details.

Seek To Regain Coal Markets

Drive Begins In Pittsburgh To Restore Lost Markets To District

COMPLAINT MADE ON COAL RATES

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—Another drive to regain lost markets for western Pennsylvania's soft coal industry was underway today as two local trade groups complained to the Interstate Commerce Commission that freight rates were discriminatory.

With an estimated 10,000 additional jobs and millions of dollars worth of business as the prize, the Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau and the Western Pennsylvania Coal Operators Association filed the complaint, charging more than 60 railroads with rate discrimination against coal moving from Pittsburgh to Toledo, O., intermediate distances and southern Michigan.

Chief defendants were the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, the Baltimore and Ohio, and the New York Central.

Unofficial sources estimated that close to 10,000 additional coal miners would be re-employed and millions of dollars would be diverted into western Pennsylvania business channels if the rich Michigan market was regained.

"At present western Pennsylvania mines have to pay the same rate to Michigan as do mines hundreds of miles farther south," R. Templeton Smith, chairman, Western Pennsylvania Coal Traffic Bureau, said. "Western Pennsylvania mines derive no benefit from their natural advantage of being located nearer the important Michigan market."

Governor May Ask $70,000,000

Large Deficit Appropriation To Be Sought From Special Session

BIG TRANSFER FROM MOTOR FUND

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 2—Gov. Arthur H. James may ask the special session of the legislature, which convenes May 6, for a deficit appropriation of more than $70,000,000 to finance relief for the remainder of the year.

"I'm going to ask for as large an appropriations as possible," he stated. Full details of the governor's financial program will be given in his address Monday night before a joint session of both houses of the general assembly. The speech will be broadcast.

Approximately $31,000,000 for relief will be transferred from the motor vehicle fund. Secretary of highways I. Lamont Hughes has informed the governor that that amount can be safely used without impairing the state's highway program.

Now Governor James says "There may be considerably more" than the $31,000,000 available for relief from the motor fund. The governor assured a delegation from the Pennsylvia motor federation headed by Judge Howard W. Hughes of Washing county that the money transferred from the motor fund would be repaid by May 31, 1941.

As the date for the convening of the special session drew nearer, additional angles of the governor's financial plans became known, although the governor refused to divulge the details.

Seek To Regain Coal Markets

Drive Begins In Pittsburgh To Restore Lost Markets To District

COMPLAINT MADE ON COAL RATES

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, May 2.—Another drive to regain lost markets for western Pennsylvania's soft coal industry was underway today as two local trade groups complained to the Interstate Commerce Commission that freight rates were discriminatory.

Walters Halts Dodger Dash As Reds Pound Ball

Brooklyn Finally Loses After Winning Nine Straight, Lombardi Hits Homer

SEVERAL GAMES ARE RAINED OUT

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 2.—The gloom was thick in Jim's Place in Brooklyn last night.

Tragedy had struck and the boys drank moodily and in silence. Finally, from his throne behind the bar, fat George broke the ice by remarking that "it was a beautiful dream while it lasted."

Then Pete the taxi driver ordered another rock and rye (for medicinal purposes only) and said somewhat truculently: "Well, you can't expect them guys to win 'em all, can yuh?"

This sage remark seemed to meet with general approval and Fred the bricklayer cheered the assemblage no little by assuring one and all that "the Dodgers would knock off them bums tomorrow."

Thus did Brooklyn react to the sad fact that the Reds had stopped the Dodgers, 9 to 2, ending a victory skein that had run through nine straight games.

Reds Go To Town

For a time it appeared as if Hugh Casey was going to duplicate Tex Carleton's no-hitter of the previous day. For three innings Casey let the Reds down without the semblance of a hit. Then the storm broke and the Reds, their ire aroused by 12 hitless frames against Dodger pitchers, really went to town.

Werber opened with a double, Lombardi hit a homer with the bases fully tenanted and before the inning was over Werber also chipped in with a round trip wallop. Total damage, six hits, eight runs. Final result: Dogers 2; Reds 9.

Bucky Walters gave the hard-hitting Dodgers only six hits for his third straight victory. And who said Bucky wouldn't be able to do as well this year as he did last? If anything, he's better than ever.

Yanks Trim Browns

The only serious blow off Bucky was Pete Coscarart's third homer in as many days. It is worth noting that the Dodgers didn't fold or dog it when eight runs to the bad, and now with the tension engendered by a winning streak off them, they probably will continue to win a majority of their games.

That was the only game in the National league, but over in the American there was plenty of action. The Yanks finally found their batting eyes and pounded out a 5-3 decision for Monty Pearson over a Brownie team that seems 100 per cent stronger than last year's misfits.

Jimmy Foxx hit his fifth homer and drove in his twenty-second run of the young season, as the Red Sox slaughtered the White Sox, 12 to 4. Nelson Potter gave only seven hits to give the Athletics a well-earned 5-1 verdict over the Indians. And the Tigers took a loosely played and poorly pitched battle from the Senators, 10 to 7.

Sports World Ramblings

Searching through a column entitled, "Now Look", published in the Temple University school paper, the name of Frank Viggiano, South Jefferson street, appears predominantly. As a member of the Medical School cage club, Viggiano, aside from being the leading scorer, was the star player and also served as captain. Frank gets his sheepskin in June. . . .

H. Lawrence, director of the Penn Trappers Association, requests a few lines regarding the coming convention, June 29 and 30, at Mifflintown, Juniata county. Notable guests will include E. J. Dalley, America's recognized authority on trapping and possibly V. E. Lynch, famous Maine guide, trapper and big game hunter. Members and non-members are cordially invited to attend, Lawrence says. . . .

The no-hit, no-run fad, which seems to be sweeping the country, has even crawled into the local sandlot sphere. Ray Brown, tossing for the Princeton High team brushed aside the Portersville clubbers. As if his pitching wasn't good enough, Brown stepped to the platter and busted out two hits and scored three runs. Princeton won in a walk, 18-0. . . .

DiMag's injury—Jo DiMaggio's injury is more serious than most baseball addicts believe. Di's ligament trouble exists around the knee. The knee, according to famous trainers, happens to be the main leg-hinge where ligaments absorb a large portion of the shock. A wounded knee is always a gamble. Even if DiMaggio enters the Yank's lineup within a few days, there is still a question mark relative to his future. If the injury does prove serious, and here's hoping it doesn't, what's in store for the Yanks? . .

Major league bits—Clay Bryant, Cub pitcher, who has been plagued with a sore arm for over a year, had his tonsils yanked this week. . . . In 1939, Gene Desautels, Red Sox catcher, posted an enviable mark, winding up the season with a fielding mark of 994 in 73 games. He miscued only twice. . . . The St. Louis Browns who are playing way above their heads, never won an American League pennant but came close twice, finishing second in 1902 and 1922. . . .

American League statisticians report that betwen 36 and 40 baseballs are used during every league game. . . . If Bill Dickey, Yank catcher, backstops in 100 games, it will be the 12th consecutive season he has done so. . . . Fred Fitzsimmons, of the Dodgers, Bucky Walters, of the Cincy Reds, and Marius Russo, youthful Yank player, rank as three of the best fielding pitchers in baseball. . . .

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

Kid Wagner, former middleweight, who played in the movies after his leather-throwing days were over is now a prosperous cafe-operator in Wilkes-Barre. Being of the frugal kind he saved his pennies in the days when he meant something pugilistically and now doesn't need run when rain falls.

A few days ago we stepped into his place and when our eyes saw the photos of some prominent fighter we noticed those of George Chip and Tom McMahon were not there. We remarked to the big raw-bone, tin-ear'd chap; "This is a nice place but it lacks the photo of the man who beat Kid Wagner."

The Kid didn't recognize us "right off the bell" because it has been years since we were together. He leaned o'er the bar and inquired: "And who beat Kid Wagner?" The writer replied in a mild tone "Oh, that Guy in New Castle they call George Chip."

The Kid leaned over farther seiz ed the hat from our red head and the remarked: "I sorta thought that was you but didn't know. Now send me that photo and one also of Tom McMahon who beat Jess Willard and I'll have them displayed the same size as John L's, Dempsey's and of myself."

Wagner then proceeded to give us the info' on the boys of yesterday. Tommy Ferguson, middleweight, is in business in Dunmore. Tommy Ginty is working in Scranton. Frankie Burke is in business in Wilkes-Barre and Tommy Green, former adviser to fighters is dead.

Tommy Quigly, a great bantam and and a pal of the late Jimmie Dime is living in Exeter, Pa., He also said that Mike Bowen one of the men who was in foot racing when Dime was a runner is ill at present. Quigley and Bowen are well up in years.

He also said that his former manager, Harry O. Rawe, died in Cincinati. Al Dewey who beat Bat Terry and Johnny Fletcher is a boxing promoter in Wilkes-Barre and Batting Gates who Terry fought is a dentist. We didn't have time to visit Johnny Riley who fought for Dime here.

Wagner said he is tutoring Neal Miller, a 142-pounder. He was a good amateur then turned professional. Since changing his status he has fought eight times and lost only one decision. Wagner wants to work him in Western Pennsylvania.

Billy Soose is well liked there so we told the gang that in the west Johnny Dean had fought Soose four rounds and lost the decision but wanted to get a crack at Billy, either in Wilkes-Barre or Scranton. Wagner intends to page the promoters, Al Dewey and Bill McDade.

They yet recall the fight between Patsy Brannigan and Billy Bevan who fought Yankee Gilbert here in Humbert hall and Tom McMahon who also milled in Scranton. Billy Conn is "big guns" in the Hard Coal field. He refereed there recently.

They like Jake Pitler who was in the Oil City Franklin league but who since has been in O. B. Jake is a brother of Johnny Ray who developed Conn. Some of them believe that Tommy Farr should have got the award over Joe Louis while some were ready to cheer Art Godoy on in the second bout.

Baseball is under way. The opening game in Wilkes-Barre drew 12,000 people. There are a number of leagues like this city and county possess. Some draw big crowds. The Anthracite field contributed many players to the majors.

We couldn't get trace of the Minooka boy, Johnny Garvey who came here after leaving St. Bonaventure. He played a game with the Castle Cords and his ankle went bad. It turned again when he got a tryout in the New York state league, some of the boys report.

Rolling back o'er Route 6 we were told in different sections of some nice trout streams. Now and then we got out of the car to peer into Pine creek, Nine Mile creek and other streams where the elusive "boys" are said to be large and wary.

Outside of Kane we glanced into the woods and saw a buck and three does feeding in a field. They were not 50 yards from the road. We backed the car to take a photograph. The buck raised his head and the first thing we saw was four tails high-balling.

Hitting out Shippensville a restaurant proprietor informed us some of the boys had caught a few trout One was 17 inches high. However, the streams up to a few days ago were high and naturally very few fishermen were out.

Frank Shubert, secretary of the Medusa baseball club of the Lawrence County Baseball league, would like to play a game with some strong team before the season's opening tilt which will be May 10. Managers may communicate with Shubert by writing box 132, Wampum.

Fiz Rodenbaugh, former hurler and infielder is eating, drinking and sleeping baseball. He is the boss of the Loyal Order of Moose team which is in the City League. Fiz is pleased with the candidates but expects to keep a sharp eye on the infield, and has not yet decided upon the first line of defense. The Moose will play on Lehigh field.

Walters Halts Dodger Dash As Reds Pound Ball

Brooklyn Finally Loses After Winning Nine Straight, Lombardi Hits Homer

SEVERAL GAMES ARE RAINED OUT

By PAT ROBINSON
International News Service Sports Editor

NEW YORK, May 2.—The gloom was thick in Jim's Place in Brooklyn last night.

Tragedy had struck and the boys drank moodily and in silence. Finally, from his throne behind the bar, fat George broke the ice by remarking that "it was a beautiful dream while it lasted."

Then Pete the taxi driver ordered another rock and rye (for medicinal purposes only) and said somewhat truculently: "Well, you can't expect them guys to win 'em all, can yuh?"

This sage remark seemed to meet with general approval and Fred the bricklayer cheered the assemblage no little by assuring one and all that "the Dodgers would knock off them bums tomorrow."

Thus did Brooklyn react to the sad fact that the Reds had stopped the Dodgers, 9 to 2, ending a victory skein that had run through nine straight games.

Reds Go To Town

For a time it appeared as if Hugh Casey was going to duplicate Tex Carleton's no-hitter of the previous day. For three innings Casey let the Reds down without the semblance of a hit. Then the storm broke and the Reds, their ire aroused by 12 hitless frames against Dodger pitchers, really went to town.

Werber opened with a double, Lombardi hit a homer with the bases fully tenanted and before the inning was over Werber also chipped in with a round trip wallop. Total damage, six hits, eight runs. Final result: Dogers 2; Reds 9.

Bucky Walters gave the hard-hitting Dodgers only six hits for his third straight victory. And who said Bucky wouldn't be able to do as well this year as he did last? If anything, he's better than ever.

Yanks Trim Browns

The only serious blow off Bucky was Pete Coscarart's third homer in as many days. It is worth noting that the Dodgers didn't fold or dog it when eight runs to the bad, and now with the tension engendered by a winning streak off them, they probably will continue to win a majority of their games.

That was the only game in the National league, but over in the American there was plenty of action. The Yanks finally found their batting eyes and pounded out a 5-3 decision for Monty Pearson over a Brownie team that seems 100 per cent stronger than last year's misfits.

Jimmy Foxx hit his fifth homer and drove in his twenty-second run of the young season as the Red Sox slaughtered the White Sox, 12 to 4. Nelson Potter gave only seven hits to give the Athletics a well-earned 5-1 verdict over the Indians. And the Tigers took a loosely played and poorly pitched battle from the Senators, 10 to 7.

Rolling back o'er Route 6 we were told in different sections of some nice trout streams. Now and then we got out of the car to peer into Pine creek, Nine Mile creek and other streams where the elusive "boys" are said to be large and wary.

Outside of Kane we glanced into the woods and saw a buck and three does feeding in a field. They were not 50 yards from the road. We backed the car to take a photograph. The buck raised his head and the first thing we saw was four tails high-balling.

Hitting out Shippensville a restaurant proprietor informed us some of the boys had caught a few trout. One was 17 inches high. However, the streams up to a few days ago were high and naturally very few fishermen were out.

Bimelech Is Horse To Beat

Colonel Bradley Believed To Have Another Sure-Fire Derby Winner

WISE MONEY IS DOWN ON "BIM"

BY LAWTON CARVER
International News Service Sports Editor

EN ROUTE TO LOUISVILLE, May 2—If Col. Edward R. Bradley's Bimelech fails to win the Kentucky Derby on Saturday, this unreasonable lack of accomplishment on the part of the most talked about horse of the day will be duly recorded as the biggest upset in the history of the revered Churchill Downs classic. His past performances indicate that he can't be beaten, and so do the betting odds and sentiment. The latter two, of course, automatically run along with the former. Nevertheless broken hearts and broken pocketbooks are going to total up into a new all time derby high unless "Big Bim" comes banging home in front.

All this was borne out today on this train laden with experts, near experts and self-confessed horse whacks. Most of them don't want to bet on Bimelech because his price is going to be short, but none of them want to get against him for the quite obvious reason that they figure he can't miss. As for his price, if he wins—and he must unless he gets himself unavoidably detained at the start or runs in hobbles—he probably will pay off just about a thin dime for a big buck.

Won't Be Sky Dog

So everybody on this derby special was in more or less of a quandary, including one large prepossessing gentleman, Major Albert Warner by bane. He is a brother of H. M. Warner, owner of the 200-to-1 shot in the derby called Sky-Dog. Mr. Warner, like everybody else, wasn't quite sure of several things, but he was dead certain of one, viz. to to wit:

That his brother's Sky Dog could not beat Bimelech.

Thus it seems superficial to say that we can eliminate Sky Dog from further consideration and concentrate on the rest—all eight or nine of the likely starters, who will go out in quest of $75,000 added money in the greatest race for three-year-olds in the world. As a matter of fact, it is just about the top turf event of any kind by this time, considering the way it has blossomed out in 65 years of tradition building.

Dit Second Choice

Arnold Hangar's Dit is second choice behind "Big Bim" to take the wreath of American beauties and the other odds and ends that go with victory, and will get some play from the so-called experts, while still others seemingly will string along with C. S. Howard's Mioland and W. L. Brann's Pictor.

As for the rest, seemingly they might as well save their energy. Barring a major catastrophe they will just get some good, healthful exercise—according to our experts.

However, among the experts I detect some gents who can't even pick a prize fight right, when there are only two guys in three, instead of nine oat-burners such as they will encounter come Saturday.

State Liquor Control Board May Prosecute

Importing Liquor Into State From Camden And New York Is Hit

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, May 2—The state liquor control board today threatened criminal prosecution of persons importing liquor into Pennsylvania from other states.

Wealthy and prominent people, the board charged, were bringing Scotch and other costly liquors into the state from Camden and New York.

"It is illegal to bring intoxicating liquor into Pennsylvania from another state even though it is not intended for sale," stated the liquor board. "Possession of this liquor can subject them to criminal charges." The vehicle in which the liquor is carried is also subject to confiscation, it was pointed out.

The board said that in a recent case a Camden store circularized people in the Philadelphia social register. The store was watched and its truck trailed into Philadelphia where it was seized and confiscated. Two offenders have been taken into court in Philadelphia in recent weeks.

Although Pennsylvania store prices are almost invariably lower than in adjacent states, "Pennsylvania prices on imported liquor are in some cases higher to protect the American producer and his employes," said the board. "It may seem like a saving to some people to buy these luxury items where they can save a few dollars per case."

An Experiment

My used cars have always been so thoroughly reconditioned and low priced that wholesale dealers have kept my stock down. They make a profit on these cars.

A Thought

Why should I not hold these values for our local friends who appreciate low price and dependability. Well, we are doing just that. The sale commences today and continues to Saturday night. I won't quote prices here, because I want this to be between you and me.

Practically all makes and models—45 of them—displayed inside—and every one a beauty!

Also a nice display of quality used trucks and delivery panels.

Many can be bought with no down payment. Others, only ⅓ down and as long as 18 months to pay. Delivery immediate. Your car doubtless will exceed down payment. First payment in June!

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

According to reports that reach this desk Pennsylvania should become one of the greatest diversified industry states in the Union. We have an abundance of coal tar and other by-products of coal that can be used in this modern world . . . yet too many of our coal mines lie idle. According to this report 98,000,000 square yards of bleached cotton cloth was imported into the United States in 1937. Many other products were also imported many of which are made right here in Pennsylvania; such as, plate glass, thread, porcelain, cement and slide fasteners. In the Department of Commerce of Pennsylvania's pamphlet on his subject it is made obvious that there is plenty of room for further growth in our state . . . we have by no means reached our "Mature" stage.

A little chill went through many homes last night and this morning when the cool winds started to blow. Many are without coal and thus wood is put to use, with the users hoping that warm weather will soon return. If the sun would shine now, you would see some real growth in plant life. Spring is a wonderful time of the year . . . especially in Pennsylvania.

Cascade Park will be opened to the public on the 30th day of this month. Many folks are anxious to see the improvements that have been made during the winter months . . . the children are anxious for it to open because every Monday after the park opens will be known as Children's Day . . . on this day every boy and girl under fourteen will be able to ride the Dodge 'em, Merry Go-'round and go Swimming for the fee of three cents each. Cascade park is your park, take advantage of its advantages and enjoy yourself in good clean fun.

So you would like to have a dog that is different'. . . well here's one that is a prize . . . and if you promise to give it a good home it goes to the first one to make his wish known.
Peter Groff . . . R. D. No. 5, Highland Extension . . . Doberman, female, 18 months old. A fine, excellent watch dog.

An Experiment

My used cars have always been so thoroughly reconditioned and low priced that wholesale dealers have kept my stock down. They make a profit on these cars.

A Thought

Why should I not hold these values for our local friends who appreciate low price and dependability. Well, we are doing just that. The sale commences today and continues to Saturday night. I won't quote prices here, because I want this to be between you and me.

Practically all makes and models—45 of them—displayed inside—and every one a beauty!

Also a nice display of quality used trucks and delivery panels.

Many can be bought with no down payment. Others, only ⅓ down and as long as 18 months to pay. Delivery immediate. Your car doubtless will exceed down payment. First payment in June!

FROM ME TO YOU

By MESEEALL

According to reports that reach this desk Pennsylvania should become one of the greatest diversified industry states in the Union. We have an abundance of coal tar and other by-products of coal that can be used in this modern world . . . yet too many of our coal mines lie idle. According to this report 98,000,000 square yards of bleached cotton cloth was imported into the United States in 1937. Many other products were also imported many of which are made right here in Pennsylvania; such as, plate glass, thread, porcelain, cement and slide fasteners. In the Department of Commerce of Pennsylvania's pamphlet on his subject it is made obvious that there is plenty of room for further growth in our state . . . we have by no means reached our "Mature" stage.

A little chill went through many homes last night and this morning when the cool winds started to blow. Many are without coal and thus wood is put to use, with the users hoping that warm weather will soon return. If the sun would shine now, you would see some real growth in plant life. Spring is a wonderful time of the year . . . especially in Pennsylvania.

* * *

Cascade Park will be opened to the public on the 30th day of this month. Many folks are anxious to see the improvements that have been made during the winter months . . . the children are anxious for it to open because every Mor lay after the park opens will be known as Children's Day . . . on this day every boy and girl under fourteen will be able to ride the Dodge 'em, Merry Go-'round and go Swimming for the fee of three cents each. Cascade park is your park, take advantage of its advantages and enjoy yourself in good clean fun.

So you would like to have a dog that is different'. . . well here's one that is a prize . . . and if you promise to give it a good home it goes to the first one to make his wish known. Peter Groff . . . R. D. No. 5, Highland Extension . . . Doberman, female, 18 months old. A fine, excellent watch dog.

PLANS FOR SUPER-HIGHWAY

(International News Service)

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.—Plans for a super-highway from Boston through New York, Philadelphia and Baltimore were revived at the 16th annual convention of the Association of Highway Officials of the Northern Atlantic States.

James Logan, of Trenton, president of the association, urged the group to take the lead in campaigning for the road, pointing out that it would serve nearly one-third of the United States' population and be of military importance in times of emergency.

Stock Market Is Steadier Today

Few Issues Recover More Than Point, Gains Are Mostly In Fractions

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, May 2.—The stock market steadied today, following its drop of 1 to more than 2 points yesterday on the Italian-Allied tension in the Mediterranean. A few issues recovered more than a point, but gains generally were limited to fractions.

Trading was moderately active at the start, but slowed later in the forenoon. First-hour sales totaled 200,000 shares.

Feature was resumption of active buying in the shipping shares. Merchants & Miners Transportation climbed almost 2 points and American-Hawaiian S. S. about half as much, both reaching new highs for the year.

Prices generally were firm from the opening, although a few scattered issues continued backward. Montgomery Ward slipped further into a new low ground before support carried it above last night's close.

Steels vied with shipping shares for market leadership on the upside. Bethlehem and Crucible each gained better than a point, while U. S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube did nearly as well.

Chrysler advanced a point and General Motors half as much. Modest gains also were shown by American Smelting, Kennecott, Westinghouse Electric, DuPont, N. Y. Central, Standard Oil of N. J., Consolidated Edison, U. S. Rubber and United Aircraft.

International Nickel eased a fraction to a new 1940 bottom.

Stock Market Is Steadier Today

Few Issues Recover More Than Point, Gains Are Mostly In Fractions

By LESLIE GOULD
(International News Service Financial Writer)

NEW YORK, May 2.—The stock market steadied today, following its drop of 1 to more than 2 points yesterday on the Italian-Allied tension in the Mediterranean. A few issues recovered more than a point, but gains generally were limited to fractions.

Trading was moderately active at the start, but slowed later in the forenoon. First-hour sales totaled 200,000 shares.

Feature was resumption of active buying in the shipping shares. Merchants & Miners Transportation climbed almost 2 points and American-Hawaiian S. S. about half as much, both reaching new highs for the year.

Prices generally were firm from the opening, although a few scattered issues continued backward. Montgomery Ward slipped further into a new low ground before support carried it above last night's close.

Steels vied with shipping shares for market leadership on the upside. Bethlehem and Crucible each gained better than a point, while U. S. Steel and Youngstown Sheet & Tube did nearly as well.

Chrysler advanced a point and General Motors half as much. Modest gains also were shown by American Smelting, Kennecott, Westinghouse Electric, DuPont, N. Y. Central, Standard Oil of N. J., Consolidated Edison, U. S. Rubber and United Aircraft.

International Nickel eased a fraction to a new 1940 bottom.

(Special To The News)

GROVE CITY, May 2.—Although Coroner James A. Biggin termed the accident in which an 11-year-old cyclist, Donald Hart, was fatally injured here last Friday as unavoidable, and completely exonerated Edward Bollinger, driver of the car that struck the boy, local police have been instructed to redouble their efforts to make local streets safe.

A special officer has been assigned to stop motorists on local speedways, the most dangerous of which is South Center street. This week, all cars being driven rapidly on this street were stopped, and drivers warned.
